Fills the screen. Falling from the top of frame to the bottom. Pluming off into dust. White, white, white. We move toward it even as it recedes, always out of reach. Finally we pop out wide and high to reveal...

The white is chalk. An old BLACK GROUNDSKEEPER lays down the right field line on a baseball diamond.

INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - MONTAGUE ST, BROOKLYN - DAY

Blinds closed. Dust motes in the air. A large GOLDFISH TANK bubbles. BRANCH RICKEY at his desk. Two photos on the wall: Abe Lincoln & Leo Durocher. CHALKBOARDS covered with 100's OF NAMES, every player in the Dodger organization.

CLYDE SUKEFORTH and HAROLD PARROTT sit across from Rickey who stares at them. Sukeforth stares back. Parrott nervous.

RICKEY
Gentlemen, I have a plan... As of now, only the Board of Directors and my family know.

Sukeforth and Parrott exchange a look.

SUKEFORTH
A plan’s always good, Mr. Rickey. And you always got one.

RICKEY
My wife says I’m too old, That my health isn’t up to it. My son says that every one in baseball will be against me. But I’m going to do it.

Parrott looks to Sukeforth who keeps his eyes on Rickey.

SUKEFORTH
Do what, Mr. Rickey?

RICKEY
I’m going to bring a Negro ballplayer to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

PARROTT
With all due respect, sir, have you lost your mind? Imagine the abuse you’ll take from the newspapers alone. Never mind how it’ll play on Flatbush. Please, Mr. Rickey.

Rickey looks dismissively at Parrott, over to Sukeforth.
RICKEY
There’s no law against it, Clyde.

SUKEFORTH
There’s a code. Break a law and get away with it, some people think you’re smart. Break an unwritten law though, you’ll be an outcast.
RICKEY
So be it. New York is full of Negro baseball fans; every dollar is green. I don't know who he is, or where he is, but he’s coming.

CUT TO:

2 EXT. RICKWOOD FIELD - BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA - NIGHT

The big Birmingham Black Barons CATCHER behind the plate as Kansas City Monarchs JOHN SCOTT stands at bat. The catcher’s attention on the RUNNER DANCING off first. Stomping a foot, feinting, hard to see clearly in the glare of the lights.

CATCHER
Where’d you learn to move like that, runner?! At dime a dance night?! Stay quiet!

* On the first pitch the runner takes off. The catcher fires to second. See it from his POV as the runner slides in “SAFE!”

A foot on the bag, the runner dusts off, heckles the catcher:

RUNNER
Is that the best you got?! Huh?!
I’m going to steal nine, ten bases today! You better start counting!

The catcher frowns. Standing, we see he is a big, big man.

CATCHER
(Alabaman)
Where’s your shortstop from?

JOHN SCOTT
(Louisianan)
California.

CATCHER
He’s got a mouth on him.

Shaking his head, the catcher gets back in his crouch, signals the PITCHER. On the wind-up, the Runner is off again. The catcher fires to THIRD: “Safe!”

RUNNER
You got a rag arm, catcher!

CATCHER
Steal home! You’ll find out what kind of arm I got!
RUNNER
Okay, I’m coming!

The Catcher looks over at Scott who chuckles.

CATCHER
California, huh?
(Scott nods)
Well California here he goes, if he comes down here.

The Catcher gets back down in his squat. Signals the pitcher: fastball. Scott digs in, ready. The runner dancing off third. Here comes the wind-up...

The Runner takes off even as the pitcher fires it in. The Birmingham Catcher intentionally drives his glove, the ball and both hands into the runner’s face -- WHALLOP! Sound drops as we’re knocked flat senseless along with the runner.

ON HIM now as he tries to push himself up from the dirt. A close look at JACK ROOSEVELT ROBINSON. A born battler, he shakes out the cobwebs, finally lurches to his feet, looks to the UMPIRE. He never heard the call.

JACK
What was I?

The umpire passes one hand over the other: Safe. Jack looks over at the catcher, gives him a pointed look as he goes --

The catcher shoves him in the back. Jack turns, shoves back. As the two men wrestles each other to the ground --

INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - MONTAGUE ST, BROOKLYN – DAY

Rickey and Sukeforth going through stacks of FILES on the desk. A black ballplayer’s picture is clipped to each. As Rickey reviews one, Sukeforth tries to hand him another.

SUKEFORTH
Josh Gibson. Oh boy can he hit.

RICKEY
No.

SUKEFORTH
No?

Rickey won’t take the file; the answer is no.
SUKEFORTH
Alright. Roy Campanella.

Sukeforth holds it out; Rickey won’t take it.

RICKEY
A heck of a player. But too sweet, they’ll eat him alive.

(holds up file)
Satchel Paige then.

Parrott enters carrying an armful of files.

RICKEY
Too old. We need a man with a future not a past.

As Parrott sets them on the desk, they start to slide off, spilling to the floor. Helpless to stem the tide, Parrott looks down, surrounded by black faces...

RICKEY
(flips through file)
A four sport college man, out of UCLA. That means he’s played with white boys.
(scans file)
Twenty-six years old, now with the Kansas City Monarchs. Batting over 350 even as we speak. 350! And he was a commissioned army officer!

SUKEFORTH
He was court-martialed. A trouble maker. He argues with umpires. A quick temper is his reputation.

Rickey is obviously keen on him.

PARROT
What was he court-martialed for?

RICKEY
For refusing to sit in the back of a military bus.
(checks the file)
Ft. Hood, Texas. The driver asked him to move back. The MPs had to take him off.
SUKEFORTH
Do you see?  *

RICKEY
I see he resents segregation. If  * he were white, we’d call it spirit!  *

PARROT  *
If he were white, sir, we wouldn’t  * be looking for him.

Rickey ends the debate...  *

RICKEY  *
Robinson’s a Methodist. I’m a  * Methodist. God’s a Methodist. We  * can’t go wrong. Find him. Bring him  * here.

CUT TO:

EXT. FILLING STATION – INTERSTATE 24 – DAY

A BLOODHOUND watches as a BUS pulls into a SERVICE STATION, the tires RING the bell hose. A million miles easy on this road rumbler. The BANNER reads: KC Monarchs.

Insert: Interstate 24, Missouri – August 24, 1945.

The DRIVER steps off. The fellas follow, getting off to stretch their legs. Hot and tired. A WHITE ATTENDANT saunters out. The driver steps over to meet him.

ATTENDANT
Fill her up?

DRIVER
Yes, sir.

The attendant starts unscrewing caps on two 50-GALLON TANKS.

ATTENDANT
Where you all headed?

DRIVER
Chicago.

As the attendant shoves down a pump, starts filling, Jack steps off. He spots and heads for a restroom. White Men Only lettered on the door. The attendant roused as he sees.

ATTENDANT
Hey! Where you going, boy!?
Everyone looking over as Jack stops.

JACK
I'm going to the toilet.

ATTENDANT
Shit, boy, c'mon. You know you can't go in there.

Jack does a slow burn, then suddenly strides toward the attendant. The air rife with tension.

JACK
Take that hose out of the tank.

ATTENDANT
Huh?

Robinson --

JACK
Take it out. We'll get our ninety-nine gallons of gas someplace else.

The attendant blinks. He takes a look from Jack to up and down the deserted highway. No business in sight.

ATTENDANT
Okay, use it. But don't stay in there too long.

Jack heads back. The Driver, the players, a bit stunned.

CUT TO:

5 INT. WHITE MEN ONLY REST ROOM - FILLING STATION - DAY

Jack splashes water on his face, rips a paper towels from the dispenser, pats his face dry. He balls the wad up, squeezes it in his fist before firing it into the trash. He considers his reflection in the mirror. As he regards himself, we hear the SERVICE BELL ring outside.

CUT TO:

6 EXT. FILLING STATION - HIGHWAY 24 - DAY

A car has pulled up. The driver talks to several players. They look over as Jack exits. The driver is Clyde Sukeforth.

SUKEFORTH
Are you Jackie Robinson?

CUT TO:
INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - MONTAGUE ST, BROOKLYN - DAY

Blinds closed. Jack sits across the desk from Rickey. Sukeforth sits a little further back. Rickey is staring at Jack. Bushy eyebrows flared, light gleams off his glasses.

INSERT: August 28, 1945, Brooklyn.

Jack doesn’t know what to do, looks to Sukeforth. Finally...

RICKEY
Do you have a girl?

JACK
Excuse me?

RICKEY
A man needs a family relying on him. It insures he'll behave responsibly. Do you have a girl?

JACK
I think so.

RICKEY
You think so?

Jack looks to Sukeforth who smiles placidly. Back to Rickey.
JACK
I don't make much money. Between the army and now baseball I've been away a lot. And Rae, Rachel, she wants to finish school. Considering all that, I say I think so.

RICKEY
Do you love her? Rachel?

(Jack confused)

Don't you know?

JACK
Yes, sir, very much.

RICKEY
Marry her.

What? Rickey stands, walks to a window. Jack looks at Sukeforth who raises a hand as if to say: Give it a chance.

RICKEY (CONT'D)
Baseball's a hard life; a man needs a good woman by his side. You don't want the only person waiting for you at home to be a catcher.

Sukeforth chuckles at that. Rickey fingers open a slat on the blind and peers out. Jack looks hard at him.

JACK
Coach Sukeforth here said you were starting a new Negro League. That doesn't make sense to me.

MR. RICKEY
It doesn't, huh? Are you calling us liars, Jack?

JACK
What's this about, Mr. Rickey?

RICKEY
This is about baseball.

Rickey opens the shade. Sunlight floods in. Rickey follows it to the chalkboard, to the list of players under Montreal.

RICKEY (CONT'D)
I see you starting in the spring with our affiliate in Montreal. If you make it there, we'll try you down here with the Dodgers. The white Brooklyn Dodgers.

Jack looks to Sukeforth who nods: Yes, you heard right.
RICKEY (CONT’D)
I’ll pay you $600 a month and a $3,500 bonus when you sign the contract. Is that agreeable?

Believe it or not that’s a lot of money to Jack on this day in time. This is all becoming a bit overwhelming.

JACK
Yes, sir. That’s fine.

RICKEY
There is one condition. I have a pile of scouting reports. I know you can hit behind the runner, that you can read a pitch. The question is can you control your temper?

JACK
My temper?

RICKEY
Yes your temper! Are you deaf?! *

Rickey furious, the avuncular old man gone. Jack sits there, * fists now balled. Rickey to Sukeforth like he’s not there: *

RICKEY (CONT’D)
He looks proud. Willful. *

SUKEFORTH
He'll need to be.

Rickey looks back to Jack who is as angry as he is confused.

RICKEY
I want to win! I want ballplayers who can win! Are you one of them?!

JACK
Yes.

RICKEY
A black man in white baseball.
Imagine the reaction. The vitriol.

Rickey strides forward, gets in his face.

RICKEY (CONT’D)
The Dodgers check into a hotel. A decent good hotel. You’re worn out from the road and some clerk won’t give you the pen to sign in.
(Southern drawl)
We got no room, boy, not even down in the coal bin where you belong.
Jack looks like he wants to tear Rickey apart.

RICKEY (CONT'D)
The team stops at a restaurant.
The waiter won't take your order.
(adopts a new voice)
Didn't you see the sign on the door? No animals allowed.
(looming)
What are you going to do then?
Fight him? Ruin all my plans? Answer me, you black sonofabitch!

JACK
(masters himself)
Do you want a ballplayer who doesn’t have the guts to fight back? Is that what you want?

RICKEY
I want one who has the guts not to fight back! There are people who will not like this. They will do anything to get you to react. If you echo a curse with a curse, they will only hear yours. Follow a blow with a blow and they will say a Negro lost his temper; that the Negro does not belong. Your enemy will be out in force, but you can not meet him on his own low ground. We win with hitting, running and fielding, nothing else. We win if the world is convinced of two things: that you are a fine gentlemen and a great ballplayer. Like our Savior, you must have the guts to turn the other cheek.

Jack considers Rickey. Rickey looks worn out.

RICKEY (CONT’D)
Can you do it?

Jack poised at what will be his Rubicon. He crosses.

JACK
Mr. Rickey, you give me a uniform, you give me a number on my back, and I’ll give you the guts.

CUT TO:
A phone RINGS on a table. RACHEL ISUM steps in, 23, possessed of style that you can only be graced with.

RACHEL

Hello?

CUT TO:

Jack in a PHONE BOOTH, the lobby busy beyond.

JACK

Rae, I’m in Brooklyn.

INTERCUT THE FOLLOWING:

RACHEL

Brooklyn? For what?

JACK

I don’t want to say on the phone. In fact, I’m not supposed to tell anyone.

She can hear the tingle in his voice.

RACHEL

Jack?

JACK

I’m here, Rae

RACHEL

What’s going on? You’re supposed to be playing in Chicago?

JACK

We’ve been tested you and me. Our loyalty, our faith. We’ve done everything the right way. Me trying to make money. You finishing school. Separated by the war, now by baseball. We don’t owe the world a thing. Only each other.

She’s actually getting a little scared now.

RACHEL

Jack, what are you talking about? What happened?
JACK
The Brooklyn Dodgers just signed me to play ball up in Montreal. It might lead to bigger things. To something wonderful.

RACHEL
What does it mean? For you and me?

JACK
Rae. Will you marry me?

RACHEL Absolutely. When?

JACK
Now.

RACHEL
(laughing)
Jack, I don’t think we can get married in a phone booth.

11 A INT. HALLWAY - THE CLARK HOTEL - LOS ANGELES - NIGHT

Jack rounds a corner in a TUXEDO, the bow tie undone. Rachel follows in her WEDDING GOWN. They look beautiful.

RACHEL
Did my mom look happy?

JACK
Yes.

They reach the door. Jack gets out a key to unlock it. Rachel looks nervous, steps back across the hall.

RACHEL
Did my gram look happy?

Swinging the door open, he looks at her. The air charged.

JACK
Everyone looked happy. I’ve never seen so many people looking happy.
RACHEL
Did Jack Robinson look happy?
   (soft)
What if I can’t make you happy?

He steps over, aware of her shyness.

JACK
Too late. You already do. It’s you and me, Rae.

RACHEL
Until the wheels fall off.
   (uncertain)
The world is waiting for us.

JACK
It can wait one more night
   (kisses her)
Are you coming, Mrs. Robinson?

RACHEL
   (kisses him back)
I’d follow you anywhere, Mr. Robinson.

He picks her up, carries her over the threshold. As the door clicks shut behind them...

CUT TO:

12 INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - BROOKLYN - DAY

The shades closed; we’re scheming again. WENDELL SMITH sits across from Rickey who stares back intently. Bespectacled, 32, Smith covers baseball for the Pittsburgh Courier.

RICKEY
Who’s the best shortstop you ever saw?

SMITH
Rabbit Tavener.

RICKEY
Rabbit Tavener? And you call yourself a sports writer?
SMITH
Yes, a sentimental one. I’m from Detroit. He was the Tiger shortstop when I was a boy. How about you? Who’s your best?

RICKEY
Pop Lloyd.

SMITH
Not Honus Wagner?

RICKEY
Wagner is number two. And Rabbit Tavener would not break my top 25. Where do you suppose Jackie Robinson will end up on that list?

SMITH
He won’t break it. He doesn’t have a shortstop’s arm. Robinson belongs on second base.

RICKEY
Alright then, where would he rate at second?

SMITH
If he was playing now he’d be the best second baseman in the majors.

RICKEY
High praise. He’ll have to be the best in the minor leagues first.

SMITH
What are you saying, Mr. Rickey?

RICKEY
I’m saying it’s going to be a very interesting spring training. A lot of players are coming back from the war and with gas rationing over, we can train down in Florida again.

SMITH
Daytona Beach?

(Rickey nods)
You’re aware in the past six months a black boy was lynched in Madison, Florida and a black man down in Live Oaks?

RICKEY
Those towns may as well be a million miles from Daytona.
SMITH
Live Oaks is 150 actually.

RICKEY
I spoke to the Daytona mayor. He assures me there’ll be no trouble.

But Rickey doesn’t sound so sure. They consider each other.

RICKEY (CONT’D)
Mr. Smith, are you a Communist?

SMITH
I’m a Democrat. Why do you ask?

RICKEY
I have a business proposition. What’s your salary at the Courier?

SMITH
Fifty dollars a week.

RICKEY
I will pay you an additional fifty dollars a week plus expenses if you will attend spring training with Jackie Robinson. You will watch over him, help him to avoid the harm that could come if he were to do or say anything out of turn. You will act as his chauffeur, you will secure accommodations for him wherever the team may be, help him find restaurants, etc...

SMITH
What’s in it for me? Besides the fifty dollars and a whole lot of aggravation?

RICKEY
Unprecedented access for any reportage you feel appropriate. What do you say, Mr. Smith?

SMITH
I say yes, sir. If a Negro is good enough to stop a Nazi bullet in France; he’s good enough to stop a line drive at Yankee Stadium.

RICKEY
Ebbets Field actually, but yes, I agree. The world is ready.

Over 500 guests: journalists, players and politicians all listen politely as a SPEECH drones to an end.

INSERT: New York City. 23rd Annual Baseball Writer’s Association Dinner February 3, 1946.

SPEAKER
As our former President Herbert Hoover remarked in his tribute to our national pastime: ‘The rigid voluntary rules of right and wrong, as applied in baseball, are second only to religion in strengthening the morals of the American people.’

Polite applause as the speaker steps off. The clapping more enthusiastic as the lights dim on all but an impromptu set: plantation house columns. Hoots as a BUTLER appears wearing satin knee breeches and a MONTREAL ROYALS jersey. He holds a ring like a lawn jockey, a WHITE MAN in BLACK FACE. The laughs get louder as he peers out with exaggerated wide eyes.

BUTLER
Lordy, lordy, it’s looking like da massa will be late dis ebning.

As the LAUGHS from the audience subside, a sportswriter dressed as a COLONEL enters from stage right.

COLONEL
Robbie! Robbie!

BUTLER
Yassuh, Massa Kunl. Here Ah is.

Huge LAUGHS as he struts and dances his way over.
COLONEL
Jackie, you woolly headed rascal. How long yo’ been in the family?

BUTLER
Ebber since Massa Rickey done bots me from da Kansas City Monarchs.

COLONEL
(aside to audience)
Rickey that no good carpetbagger! What could he be thinking!

Huge LAUGHS from that one. Two people enjoying it we’ll recognize later as HERB PENNOCK and BOB COOKE.

BUTLER
Ah came near bein’ killed last night, Kunl.

COLONEL
How’s that, Jackie boy?

BUTLER
Ah was comin’ up a dark street and three men was behind me. And they tried to do me with a baseball bat.

COLONEL
You don’t say?

BUTLER
Yes, suh. Ah recognized one of dem. Ah’m gonna hab him arrested.

COLONEL
But I thought you said it was dark?

BUTLER
It was. But I know he played for the Philadelphia Baseball Club. On account of he struck at me three times and never hit me once.

That brings the house down. Check out their laughing faces.

JACK
I will, Mama.

Mallie hugs Jack and then kisses Rachel.

MALLIE
Look after each other.

RACHEL
We will.

She reaches in her bag, brings out a cardboard SHOEBOX; it’s ever so slightly greasy at the bottom.

MALLIE
Take this. It’s chicken.

JACK
They have food on the plane, Mama.

MALLIE
You never know what might happen. I don't want you getting there starving and too weak to hit.

Rachel gives Jack a subtle but emphatic look: No.

CUT TO:

Jack escorts Rachel to the plane, the shoebox in hand.

RACHEL
I know she means well; I just don’t want to be seen eating chicken out of a box like some country bumpkin.

Jack runs his hand over her coat.

JACK
No one’s going to mistake you for a bumpkin in this.

JACK
Honey... Rae --

He takes a step after her, stops as she disappears inside. Jack unsure what to do. He looks around. Looks back. He doesn’t need this right now.
INT. AIRPORT COFFEE SHOP - DAY

A black BUSBOY reacts as a bickering Jack and Rachel enter.

JACK
I promised Mr. Rickey we’d stay out of trouble.

RACHEL
Did you promise him we wouldn’t go to the bathroom? You’ve done it.

JACK
Before I promised.

RACHEL
It was just a toilet. You’d think the commodes were made of gold.

The busboy watches as Jack and Rachel slide into a booth. As Jack reaches for a MENU, here comes the COOK.

COOK
You folks can’t sit here.

JACK
Excuse me?

COOK
It’s white only.

Jack looking to Rachel; it’s equanimity time. Not easy.

COOK
I’ll sell you some sandwiches. But you gotta take ‘em to go.

Jack looks to the busboy, back to the cook.

JACK
No. You hang onto those.

As Rachel nods, an AIRLINE EMPLOYEE boards, MISS BISHOP. She makes her way over. She spots who she’s looking for.

MISS BISHOP
Jack Robinson? Come with me.

She starts away without explaining, looks back at them a bit impatiently.

MISS BISHOP
Come on now. Both of you.

CUT TO:

RACHEL (low)
Tell her you’re with the Dodgers.

Jack would rather not play that card.

JACK
When’s the next flight?

MISS BISHOP
Tomorrow morning. But it’s booked. So someone’ll have to cancel.

Jack and Rachel unaware as a WHITE COUPLE are ushered out a door and onto the tarmac behind them.

JACK
Look, I’m with the Brooklyn Dodger organization. I’ve got to get down to Daytona. I’m supposed to report to spring training in the morning.

MISS BISHOP
We’ll do our best to get you down there by tomorrow afternoon, but it might be the day after.

RACHEL
Jack --

He follows her gaze to where the white couple get on the plane they got off. Jack wheels on Miss Bishop, furious.

JACK

REESE

I got it! I got it!

STANKY

I got it! I got it!

They both back off at the last second and it drops to the ground between them. Durocher chuckles.

DUROCHER

That’s what spring training’s for, boys! Sort out our differences!

He hits another. This time to the outfield where veteran DIXIE WALKER gives chase, finally gives up on it.

DUROCHER

C’mon, Dixie, get after it!

WALKER

(laughing)

I’m old!

DUROCHER

I’m gonna squeeze one more year out of that worn out body of yours!

WALKER

If you could, skipper, my wife would sure appreciate it!

DUROCHER

Keeping the women happy! That’s what it’s all about!
Rickey drives a dirt road through the training field singing “Two Sleepy People” along with the radio. Passing BROOKLYN DODGERS, MONTREAL ROYALS & ST. PAUL SAINTS on either side.

Durocher hits another as Rickey pulls up.

RICKEY
How are they looking, Leo?

DUROCHER
Rusty, Mr. Rickey. But we’ll get ‘em oiled up and ready in no time. You find your lost sheep yet?

Troubled, Rickey shakes his head ‘no’. As he does, Harold Parrot hurries over. He’s the Dodgers travelling secretary.

PARROTT
Jackie Robinson’s on a bus leaving Pensacola.

RICKEY
A bus? Harold, how in blazes did he end up on a bus?!

BOB BRAGAN, in his catching gear, passing by with pitchers RALPH BRANCA and KIRBY HIGBE. Higbe asides to Bragan:

HIGBE
Why don’t they just put him on a watermelon truck?

BRANCA
What’s the matter with you guys?

BRAGAN
Not a thing, Branca, but we ain’t just two pretty faces either.

Jackie Robinson... Mr. Rickey sent me to meet you. Wendell Smith. Pittsburgh Courier. I’m going to be your Boswell.
JACK
My who?

SMITH
Your chronicler, your advance man.  Hell, even your chauffeur.  (tips his hat)  Mrs. Robinson.

RACHEL It’s Rachel.

SMITH
Man, you two look wiped out.

JACK

You got a car? Get us out of here.

CUT AHEAD TO: *

31 EXT. SMITH’S BUICK (PARKED) – DAY
Jack and Smith carry the luggage. Smith’s excited being around Jack even if he is grumpy. As Smith unlocks the Buick, Rachel considers a segregated pair of water fountains. *

SMITH
You ever been down South before, Rachel?

RACHEL
First time. We have our problems in Pasadena, but not like this.

SMITH
Mr. Rickey says we follow the law. If Jim Crow and the state of Florida say Negroes do this and that, then we do this and that.

RACHEL
(softly)
My life’s changing right in front of me. Who I am, who I think I am.

CUT TO:

32 EXT. THE HARRIS HOUSE – DAYTONA BEACH – DAY
Black neighborhood. The Buick stops at a nice looking house.

SMITH
Joe and Duff Harris live here. He gets out the black vote, does a lot of good for colored folks.
(MORE)
Mr. Rickey set it up himself.
(imitates Rickey)
If we can’t put the Robinsons in the hotels, they should stay someplace that represents something.

Jack and Rachel exchange a look, the place seems nice.

SMITH
Brooklyn plays downtown; Montreal a few blocks from here. You’ll stay with the Harrises except for a few days at the end of the week. The whole Dodger organization is going to Sanford, about 45 minute away. You’ll stay here though, Rachel.

RACHEL
Where are the other wives staying?

SMITH
There are no other wives. You’re the only one Mr. Rickey allowed to spring training.

As the HARRISES step out on the porch, wave hello...

CUT TO:

33 INT. STAIRWAY - THE HARRIS HOUSE - DAY

MRS. HARRIS leads Jack and Rachel up the stairs to a door at the top. Mrs. Harris opens it.

MRS. HARRIS
I call this the love nest. I hope you like it.

RACHEL
I’m sure. Thank you.

As Jack enters, Mrs. Harris starts back down.

MRS. HARRIS
Dinner’s at five.

Rachel enters, closes the door behind her --

34 LOVE NEST

-- And accidentally knocks Jack onto the bed. She lands on top of him. The room is impossibly small. It barely holds their luggage and the BED they’re on. As they look around:

JACK
It’s a joke, right?
RACHEL
I like it. The love nest.
She kisses him. He’s starting to like it, too.

RACHEL
Remind me dinner’s at five.

JACK
I’ll try to remember...

As the kisses become more urgent...

CUT TO:

A35 INT. SMITH’S BUICK – DAYTONA TRAINING FACILITY – DAY

Smith pulls up alongside the team buses, looks across at Jack who is just a little nervous.

SMITH
The first day of Spring Training. My Pittsburgh Courier readers need to know how it feels.

JACK
It’s okay.

SMITH
That’s not exactly a headline.

(brusque)
That’s all I got.

SMITH
Look, Jack, right now it’s just me asking you. But you get on that field and it’s going to be the New York Times and the Sporting News. You should think about it.

JACK
If they ask something, I’ll answer.

SMITH
Alright, but you know when you’re at the plate, you want to feel like you see the pitch come in slow? Well, you want to see the questions come in slow, too.

As PLAYERS (Brooklyn, St. Paul & Montreal) warm up, practice, Rickey sits on the bench, angry as he reads a NEWSPAPER.

Harold Parrott hurries over, something urgent on his mind. Rickey on a rant; Parrott can’t get a word in.

RICKEY
Listen to this, Harold. Whenever I hear a white man - yours truly - broadcasting what a Moses he is to the Negro race, then I know the latter needs a bodyguard.

(Parrott tries to interject)

It is those of the carpetbagger stripe of the white race - me again - who under the guise of helping, in truth are using the Negro for their own selfish interest, thereby retarding the race!

Parrott tries to interrupt again, but Rickey is furious.

RICKEY
The minor league commissioner of baseball said that! I pay part of his salary! You wouldn’t stab me in the back like this, would you?

PARROTT
(finally)
He’s here, Mr. Rickey.
Jack crossing toward them in his Montreal Monarchs uniform carrying a glove and a bat. 200 white players clocking him.

He’s surrounded by REPORTERS and PHOTOGRAPHERS. It’s the cue for most of the batting and fielding and chatter among the Dodgers, Royals and Saints to come to a stop.

Higbe forgets Bragan is throwing him a ball. It clocks him in the chest.

Reese and Stanky passing a medicine ball.

REESE
That’s him, huh?

STANKY
Take a wild guess.

Flash bulbs go off in Jack’s face. Questions like punches. *

REPORTER ONE
Jackie, do you think you can make it with these white boys?

Jack looks off to where Smith watches, back to the reporter. *

See the questions slow. He answers with measure. *

JACK
Sure, I had no problem with white men in the service or at UCLA.

REPORTER TWO
What'll you do if one of these pitchers throws at your head?

JACK
(thinks a beat)
I’ll duck.

That gets some laughs.

REPORTER THREE
Jack, what's your natural position?

ROBINSON
I've been playing shortstop.

REPORTER THREE
Are you after Pee Wee Reese's job?
Jack looks over to where Reese watches with Stanky.

JACK
Reese plays for Brooklyn. I'm worried about making Montreal.

REPORTER ONE
Is this about politics?

JACK
It's about getting paid.

Jack doing beautifully.

Smith breathes a sigh of relief...
MANAGER CLAY HOPPER

In a Montreal uniform, Hopper’s too old to be a ballplayer. He stands with Dixie Walker the Dodger right fielder.

HOPPER
(Mississippi twang)
Well, when Mr. Rickey picks one, he sure picks a black one.

WALKER
He’s fine with me, so long as you keep him up in Montreal.

HOPPER
Here comes the old man to save him.

They watch as Rickey pulls Jack from the press. He leads Jack directly toward Hopper. As Walker excuses himself...

WALKER
Good luck, Hop...

RICKEY

Hopper shakes his hand as they exchange greetings.

HOPPER
We ain’t doing much today. Just throwing the ball around and hitting a few. Why don’t you toss a few with those fellas over there? (calls over) Hey, Jorgensen!

A kid in a Montreal uniform looks over. SPIDER JORGENSEN.

HOPPER
Meet Jackie Robinson.

CUT TO:

37 EXT. PARKING LOT - DODGER DAYTONA FACILITY - DAY

The end of the day. Buses leave by team, the Dodgers and the farm clubs. White faces look down as they pass a tired Jack, who walks through the lot toward Wendell Smith and his Buick.

Higbe and Bragan call out from the door of the Dodger bus.

HIGBE
Hey, Rook! Did you hear about the redneck shortstop?
BRAGAN
He thought the last two words of the National Anthem were Play Ball!

Jack forces a smile, but the joke comes off a bit harsh. And they seem like they’re laughing at him as...

HIGBE
How about the shortstop making all the errors, tried to kill himself by jumping out on the highway?

As the bus passes by, Jack sees the impassive faces of Dixie Walker, Reiser, Stanky, Pee Wee Reese and finally 20-year-old Branca. Branca smiles, offers an awkward little wave.

SMITH
Between his legs, good one. He must’ve read a joke book. If he can read.

Jack just gets in the car. Smith sighs, drum rolls the hood of the Buick.

SMITH
Hi, Wendell, how are you...? Well, looks like I got a long drive to Sanford.

CUT TO:

MR. BROCK comes out the screen door carrying a tray of tall drinks. He sets them on a table, watches and waits as Smith and Jack get out of the Buick, start up the steps.

MR. BROCK
Jackie, I’m Ray Brock. Welcome to Sanford Florida! The day belongs to decent minded people.

They shake hands. Brock looks to Smith, obviously knows him.

MR. BROCK
Wendell, good to see you.
(to Jack)
My wife’s inside cooking. You know what she asked me this morning? She asked me, what do you serve when a hero’s coming for dinner?
Jack’s humble, embarrassed, doesn’t know what to say.

    JACK
    I’m just a ballplayer, Mr. Brock.

    MR. BROCK
    Tell that to all the little colored boys playing baseball in Florida today. You’re a hero to them.

The look on Jack’s face says that’s a heavy burden.

    MR. BROCK (CONT’D)
    Sit down, have something to drink. My special rum and coke.

    JACK
    No thank you, sir, I don’t drink.

    MR. BROCK
    A ballplayer who doesn’t drink? That’s a new one on me.

    SMITH
    I’ll have one. I’m a stereotypical reporter through and through.

    JACK
    Mr. Brock, do you have a desk? I’d like to get a letter to my wife.

    MR. BROCK
    Of course, this way.

As Mr. Brock leads Jack ahead, Smith sips his drink.

CUT TO:

EXT. PRACTICE DIAMOND - SANFORD - DAY

Rickey and Montreal manager Hopper stand by the dugout watching a spring game versus St Paul. Jack’s playing second. They watch him closely as they talk.

    HOPPER
    He’s getting by on a quick release, but his arm’s too weak for short. Second base is his spot.

    RICKEY
    I agree. And I’ll state another obvious, Clay, I need the players to act like gentlemen around him.

    HOPPER
    Uh huh.
The MAN on first takes a lead.

RICKEY
To treat him as they would any other teammate.

HOPPER
Uh huh.

RICKEY
To be natural, to impose no restrictions on themselves. To all work together in harmony.

WHACK! The hit & run is on. The man on first runs on the pitch as a LOW LINE DRIVE shoots for the gap between 1st and 2nd. Robinson turns himself inside out to dive on his belly and catch it before it hits the ground.

He spins himself around, pivots on a knee to throw the runner out before he can get back to first. Rickey is astounded.

RICKEY
That was superhuman.

HOPPER
(chuckling)
Superhuman? Don’t get carried away, Mr. Rickey, that’s still a Nigger out there.

Rickey takes a moment to process. It’s Hopper’s light admonishing tone that really halts him. Finally...

RICKEY
Clay, I realize that attitude is part of your heritage; that you practically nursed race prejudice at your mother's breast, so I will let it pass. But I will add this: you can manage Robinson fairly and correctly or you can be unemployed.

They both look over as Jack comes off the field toward them.

HOPPER
Attaboy, Jackie! Way to turn two!

CUT TO:

40  EXT. FRONT PORCH - THE BROCK HOUSE - SANFORD - NIGHT

Smith and Mr. Brock are sitting on the porch sipping rum and cokes. A quiet evening.
MR. BROCK
I hope Jackie sleeps alright. Chasing baseballs in the sun all day, I’d be in my grave. How are they treating him out there?

They watch as a CAR slows, parks across the street.

SMITH
Okay as far as I can see.

A MIDDLE-AGED WHITE MAN, LUTHER exits the car and starts toward them.

MR. BROCK
(frowns)
You find good people every place you go. Even here in Florida...

LUTHER
(stopping below)
Is he in there?

SMITH
Who is it you’re looking for?

LUTHER
Nigra ball player.

The air suddenly alive with danger.

SMITH
He’s asleep. Maybe you better come back in the morning.

LUTHER
I ain’t comin’ back. Other fellas is comin’. They ain’t too happy about him stayin’ here in Sanford. Playin’ ball with white boys.
(a long beat)
Skedaddle, that’s what I’d do. If’n they get here, and he’s still here, there’s gonna be trouble.

He turns and walks away. As they watch, a phone rings...

RICKEY’S VOICE
Yes, Wendell, what is it?

CUT TO:

41 INT. HOTEL ROOM - DAYTONA BEACH - NIGHT
Rickey in his pajamas in his hotel room. On the phone.
RICKEY
I see... Yes, I understand. Wake him up and get him out of there.
Put him in the car and start driving for Daytona Beach. Now.
And, Wendell, under no circumstance tell him what this is about. I do not want him to get it in his head to stay there and fight.

CUT TO:

42 INT. BEDROOM - MR. BROCK’S HOUSE - NIGHT

Half dressed, Jack sits on the edge of his bed, feeling bad. Through his open door, across a hall, we can see Smith in his room. Passing in and out of view packing his own things.

JACK
I was just getting loose.

Smith sticks his head in the door.

SMITH
Don't just sit there. Pack your duds. We're blowin'.

A phone RINGS somewhere. They hear Brock answer, then:

MR. BROCK’S VOICE
Wendell?!

Smith leaves the room. Hold on Jack, despair as he listens.

SMITH’S VOICE
Yes, Mr. Rickey, I'm with him now... We're pulling out for Daytona in five minutes, soon as he gets his bag packed... Yes, yes, it's just one of those things.

‘One of those things.’ As Jack’s head hangs a little lower.

CUT TO:

43 INT./EXT. BUICK - MAIN STREET - SANFORD - NIGHT

The street deserted, sidewalks rolled up. Jack angry and silent in the passenger seat. Smith jumpy behind the wheel. They stop as a PICK-UP stops ahead outside a BAR where:

A DOZEN WHITE MEN in shirtsleeves exchange words with the boys in the truck. To Jack it looks like a typical small town bull session. To Smith it looks like something else.
The white men look over at the two black men. One steps over, motions: roll down the window.

JACK
I wonder what he wants?

SMITH
To run us out of town.

JACK
What are you talking about?

The man close now. As Jack cranks down the window, Smith floors it. The Buick SCREECHES away, SWERVING around a CAR coming the other way.

JACK
What the hell, Wendell?!

SMITH
Man came by while you were asleep. (checks mirror)
Told us more men were coming. Maybe those boys. Mr. Rickey said to get you to Daytona Beach a-s-a-p.

JACK
Why didn’t you say so?

SMITH
Mr. Rickey was afraid you wouldn’t leave, that you would fight.

As it becomes clear, Jack starts to LAUGH.

SMITH
What the hell are you laughing at?

JACK
I thought you woke me because I was cut from the team.

Jack LAUGHS harder. Wendell LAUGHS as well. As it fades, Jack looks back over his shoulder. Jesus...

CUT TO:

EXT. CITY ISLAND BALLPARK - DAYTONA BEACH - DAY

A stadium SIGN boasts Brooklyn Dodgers vs. Montreal Royals.
Daytona Beach’s black community is turning out to see Jackie Robinson. Hundreds of people line up, mass at the: Colored Entrance. In their Sunday best. Families. Couples. The old. The frail. Young boys chase after each other. One MOTHER stands on her toes to spot her son.

MOTHER
Ed! You stay where I can see you!

13-year old ED CHARLES turns, waves his baseball glove over his head so she can see him. Then to no one in particular:

ED
I’m thirteen years old.

WHITE PEOPLE enter at several gates around them.

CUT TO:

CLOSE ON BRANCH RICKEY - THE DODGER DUGOUT

He sits watching as the segregated bleachers in right fill with BLACK FANS. All else is white. Rickey pops a PEANUT in his mouth, confides to someone alongside him we don’t see.

RICKEY
I’ve spoken to the mayor. I’ve explained how much money we’ll spend in Daytona. But still, when this fine young Negro man steps on that field today, he and the Dodgers will technically be breaking the law. A law which says white and black players cannot enjoy the same field at the same time. Does that make sense to you? Does Jim Crow make any sense when placed against the words of the United States Constitution? When placed against the word of God?

POP OUT to reveal he sits beside the DODGER BATBOY, so short his feet don’t touch the ground. Rickey offers his peanut bag. As the batboy takes one...

RICKEY
I’ll tell you, it does not make sense to me.

CUT TO:

OMITTED
EXT. ON DECK CIRCLE - CITY ISLAND BALLPARK - DAY

Jack swinging two bats to get loose. Watches as the Montreal BATTER hits a LINE DRIVE which -- Pee Wee Reese nearly leaps out of his socks to bring down. Wow...

As the CROWD claps in appreciation, Jack takes a deep breath.

PA ANNOUNCER
Now batting the second baseman --
Jackie Robinson!

Jack wincing as he steps forward to both cheers and boos from the white sections. As a 'go home, coon' drifts over -- A BIG OVATION from the black section in right drowns it out.

COLORED SECTION - RIGHT FIELD

Rachel sits with Smith. They react to some of the INVECTIVE coming from the white section.

RACHEL
Jack’s got a thick skin. He’ll be okay.

SMITH
How about you?

RACHEL
(shrugs)
I better get one in a hurry.

INFIELD

Higbe watching from the mound as Jack steps into the batter’s box. Two well wishing voices from the infield stands.

SPECTATOR ONE
Come on, black boy, you can make the grade!

SPECTATOR TWO
They’re giving you a chance! Do something about it!

Jack heartened at the words. Concentrates as Higbe’s first pitch is fired. High and tight, Jack jerks out of the way.
Bragan, behind the plate, chucks the ball back, grins up at Jack who does not look down at him as he settles back in.

ED CHARLES

The 13-year-old holding his hands together in prayer.

ED
Please, God, let Jackie show them what we can do.

HOME PLATE

Here comes the next pitch. Even tighter. Jack nearly hit.

UMPIRE
Ball two!

Jack glaring, crowds the plate more. Bragan shows 1, taps his right thigh signalling outside. Jack watches it sail, doesn’t bite. The umpire: “Ball Three!” Higbe’s fun slipping away as he can’t find the strike zone.

HIGBE
Come on, Rook! Ain’t you gonna swing at something?!

Jack takes a practice swing, waits as Bragan sets up right over the plate. Here comes the pitch. Low. “Ball four!”

RACHEL & SMITH

A big, over-reacting CHEER from the Colored section.

SMITH
It’s just a walk.

RACHEL
Who can blame them?

HIGBE

Looks ill-tempered over to first where Jack gives the same look back as he sidesteps an enormous, defiant lead off the bag. Higbe incredulous. Did he just do that?

DUROCHER
(from dugout)
Well throw over there for crying out loud!

Higbe fires to LAVAGETTO at first. Jack dives back in time.
Higbe gets the ball back, settles. Jack takes a lead, but a modest one this time. Here come the pitch -- And Jack goes.

You knew he was fast; but not this fast. Bragan’s throw to Pee Wee is late and high. Pee Wee throws back to Higbe.

Higbe sets. Bragan gives him a sign. Jack takes a lead. On the wind-up, Jack goes. Bragan stands -- it’s a PITCH OUT.

Bragan fires to third and Jack is caught in a RUN DOWN. It seems like half the team gets involved with Higbe finally getting the ball by third and Jack ducking under the tag.

Safe! A BUZZ goes through the stadium now as people start to realize they are not watching something or someone ordinary.

RICKEY
Watching from a seat behind third.

RICKEY
Thataway, Jackie! Thataway!

HIGBE & JACK

Higbe looks home for the sign, Jack dancing off third, pounding his right foot toward home. He feints hard home.

Higbe steps off the rubber. Jack stays where he is.

HIGBE
Hell! You’re supposed to go back to third when I step off! Don’t you know nothing?!

He throws over. Jack back to the bag. Higbe gets the ball back, looks in. Jack bouncing, pounding off third. His movements carry violence within them. Like a piston exploding in an engine.

Higbe into his motion, stops his delivery, accidentally drops the ball to the ground. The umpire signals BALK, points Jack home. Higbe is furious.

ED CHARLES – IN THE COLORED SECTION

CHEERING, joyous. His mother joins in, happy despite...

MOTHER
I don’t understand. What happened?

ED
It’s a balk, Mama. The pitcher can’t start toward home and then stop. Jackie scores.
MOTHER
But he didn’t do anything.

ED
Oh, mama, yes he did, he discombobulated the man.

DUGOUT
Durocher looks to Branca, impressed.

DUROCHER
He didn’t come to play; he came to kill.

Durocher starts out to the mound to talk to Higbe.

DIXIE WALKER
Watching from right field, the black crowd still cheering.
He walks over toward the open bullpen where Casey stands.

WALKER
This really how it’s gonna be some day? Baseball?

CUT TO:

EXT. SCOREBOARD - BALLFIELD - DAY

Montreal vs. Indianapolis. THE STANDS are half filled. The COLORED SECTION is packed solid, accentuated by the many empty seats in the sections on either side of it.

INSERT: De Land, Florida.

No score, top of the first as -- Jack drops a BUNT down the line. The FIRST BASEMAN fields, throw to the SECOND BASEMAN covering. Too late. Only Jack doesn’t stop.

Realizing the SHORTSTOP isn’t covering the bag, Jack bolts for second. The second baseman has to wait on the throw and when he makes it -- The UMPIRE signals safe. A bunt double!

Spider Jorgensen settles in the batter’s box. The pitch. Crack, Jorgensen laces a single to left.

Jack motors to third where Sukeforth is WAVING him home. We’re with him at hip level as he tears down the basepath. The CATCHER bracing for the throw – they COLLIDE – he’s SAFE! *

As Jack gets to his feet, however, a Jim Crow POLICEMAN steps up to meet him, grabs him by the shoulder.

POLICEMAN
Git offa this field now!
JACK
What!?  Why?

POLICEMAN
It’s against the law is why.  No niggers don't play with no white boys.  Git off or go to jail.

Jack shrugs the policeman’s hand off his shoulder.  That sends him reaching for his nightstick and --

Sukeforth is there to get between them.

JACK
You swing that thing you better hit me between the eyes with it.

POLICEMAN
Is that so?

The CROWD BOOING.  The black section especially.

HOPPER
(arrives from dugout)
Hey, hold on, what’d he do wrong?

POLICEMAN
We ain't havin' Nigras mix with white boys in this town.  Ya'll ain't up-states now; they gotta stay separate.  Brooklyn Dodgers ain't changing our way of living.  Where are you all from anyhow?

HOPPER
Greenwood, Mississippi.

POLICEMAN
Hell, man, you oughta know better.
(a dangerous beat)
Now tell your Nigra I said to git.  You think I'm foolin'?

Hopper looks desperately to Jack who just stands there.

RACHEL’S VOICE
What did you do?

CUT TO:

51  EXT. STREET - DAYTONA BEACH - HARRIS NEIGHBORHOOD - DAY  51
Jack and Rachel out walking.  He’s been telling the story.
JACK
I said okay, Skipper, tell him...
Ah’m a-gittin’. Sho’nuff, ah is.

RACHEL
You didn’t?

JACK
I did. Then I took a long shower.
We lost 2 to 1.

She takes a few exaggerated steps to amuse him.

RACHEL
Ah’m a-gittin’, ah’m a gittin’.

He laughs, takes her hand. He’s going to kiss her.

JACK
You’re not getting away from me.

RACHEL
(looking past)
Jack...

A white man bee-lines them from across the street, looks like a real CRACKER. Jack on guard, gets in front of Rachel.

JACK
Get back, Rae. Go back.

Cracker stops square across from him. Jack’s fists balled.

CRACKER
I want you to know something.

JACK
Yeah, what's that?

CRACKER
I want you to know I'm pulling for you to make good. And a lot of folks here feel the same way. If a man's got the goods, he deserves a fair chance. That's all.
(tips his hat)
Ma'am.

As Cracker walks away... Rachel takes Jack’s hand.

CUT TO:
52A  EXT. PLAYING FIELD - DODGER DAYTONA FACILITY - DAY  52A  *

Rickey leans against his car watching a GROUNDSKEEPER push mow the infield grass.  Jack, in street clothes, joins him.

JACK
You wanted to see me, Mr. Rickey?

Rickey nods, consider the field a moment.

RICKEY
Bermuda grass grows so well here.
I wish we could get it to grow like this in Brooklyn.

JACK
I like the way it smells when they mow it.
RICKEY
Me, too.

Rickey consider the field a moment, then Jack.

RICKEY
Jackie, it’s my pleasure to tell you that you’ve earned a spot on the Montreal Royals. When they head north Tuesday for opening day against Jersey City, you’ll be on the train.

Jack trying to hold down his excitement.

JACK
I won’t let you down.

RICKEY
I know that.

JACK
If you don’t mind, I’ve got to go tell my wife.

RICKEY
Give her my regards.

Jack about to head off when he looks back.

JACK
Why are you doing this, Mr. Rickey?

RICKEY
I’m an opportunist. With you and the Negro players I hope to bring up next year I’ll put together a team that can win the World Series. And the World Series means money.

Jack studies him a beat, not quite buying it.

RICKEY
Don’t you believe that?

JACK
I don’t think what I believe is important. Only what I do.

RICKEY
Agreed. Therefore, run the bases like the Devil himself.

(MORE)
Worry those pitchers so they come apart. Sometimes they'll catch you, but don't worry about that. Ty Cobb got caught plenty. Just run as you see fit. Put the natural fear of God into them.

CUT TO:

53 EXT. DAYTONA BEACH TRAIN STATION - DAY

Ed Charles and his TWO FRIENDS follow Jack and the Montreal PLAYERS as they walk toward the TRAIN waiting on the tracks. Jack is one of the last to board. He's almost through the door when something stops him. He looks back at Ed. A beat. Ed slowly raises his hand and waves. Jack smiles, does the same, then disappears inside. The WHISTLE blows and the train starts out of the station. On impulse Ed starts to trot out after it. Staying close. His friends follow.

TRAIN TRACKS

The train picks up speed. The boys start to run. Arms pumping, feet flying. One boy drops off. Then the other.

But Ed still runs. Chasing after that train carrying Jackie Robinson. Finally, he stops, heaving for breath, watching the train disappear around the bend. A lonely beat. Then --

Ed gets down on his hands and knees. He sets his ear on the rail, closes his eyes. A thrum comes off the rail. A huge smile spreads. He straightens, shouts back to his friends:

ED
I CAN STILL HEAR HIM!

From somewhere, as the National Anthem ends...

CUT TO:

54 EXT. ROOSEVELT STADIUM - DAY

INSERT: April 18, 1946 - Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City. Opening day of the International League Season.

A COLOR GUARD march away to REVEAL:

HOME PLATE UMPIRE PLAY BALL!

30,000 FANS pack a stadium built for 24,500. Bunting and flags everywhere. 1000s of black fans are here (segregated only financially in New Jersey).

CUT TO:
EXT. HOME PLATE - ROOSEVELT STADIUM - DAY

Jack steps up to some BOOING, but much more APPLAUSE. He looks ready to beat the world.

INSERT: First inning.

CROWD VOICE
Come on, Jackie, this fella can't pitch!

Speaking of the pitch, here it comes. Jack tops a WEAK GROUNDER to short. As he’s thrown out by a mile...

WENDELL SMITH & RACHEL

Sitting up off third. His knees knocked together to hold his TYPEWRITER on his lap. Nothing to write about there. He looks over at Rachel who puts her hand over her mouth.

SMITH
You okay?

RACHEL
I think I might be sick.
(standing)
Excuse me, Wendell.

He watches as she starts out, looks to the field.

SMITH
I’d be sick at a swing like that, too.

CUT TO:

INT. REST ROOM STALL - ROOSEVELT STADIUM - DAY

Rachel exits looking stricken. She steps over, splashes a little water from the sink up into her face. An OLDER BLACK WOMAN watches sympathetically.

OLDER WOMAN
Are you alright, honey?

RACHEL
I’m sick. I don’t know why.

The older woman rolls off a piece of paper towel for her.

RACHEL (CONT'D)
Thank you.

OLDER WOMAN
When did you have your monthly last?
Rachel looks over, taken aback. But then...

RACHEL
I’m late.

OLDER WOMAN
It may be that you’re pregnant.

The older woman offers a little smile, leaves her there.

INSERT: Third Inning.

P.A. ANNOUNCER
(echoing)
Now batting. Jackie Robinson.

CUT TO:

58 HOME PLATE
Jack steps up to bat. The JERSEY CITY GIANT PITCHER looks to the Montreal RUNNER at first, glances over his shoulder at the Montreal RUNNER at second, then focuses on home.

59 SMITH
His hands resting on the top of his typewriter.

SMITH
Come on, Jackie. Come on, batter.

60 RACHEL
Emerging up the runway. The field opening up before her. There’s Jack standing down there. The sight of him settles her. As she puts a hand gently over her belly...

61 THE PITCHER
Grimaces for something extra as he fires a high fastball -- Jack UNLOADS. All heads turn to watch it sail -- high into the left field bleachers, banging hard off the scoreboard.

62 SMITH
Nearly drops his typewriter, pushes his hat back as he watches Jack start his home run trot. Smith laughs. Joy.

63 DUGOUT
Hopper can’t believe his eyes. Softly to himself:

HOPPER
I’ll be damned...
64 WE'RE WITH JACK

As he runs the base paths. Over it, a TYPEWRITER CLATTERS.

SMITH (O.S.)
Robinson jogged around the bases, his heart singing...

The crowd loves it as he continues toward third where Sukeforth is clapping for all he’s worth.

SMITH (O.S.) (CONT’D)
And our own hearts beat just a bit faster, and the thrill ran through us like champagne bubbles...

RACHEL
Oh, Jack... Oh Jack...

66 CLOSE ON RACHEL

Suddenly in pain, face beaded in sweat.

RACHEL Jack! Jack!

INSERT: November 18, 1946. Pasadena, California.

She is in labor and we are in Huntington Memorial Hospital. A CRY. The DOCTOR holds up a slick, wailing NEWBORN.

Jack at the glass looking at JACKIE JR. Jack’s eyes shine as he regards his infant son. It’s quiet. Jack’s voice soft.

JACK
My daddy left. He left us flat in Cairo, Georgia. I was only six months older than you are now. I don’t remember him. Nothing good, nothing bad. Nothing.

But you're going to remember me.
And I am going to be with you until

The stakes just got raised...

INT. YMCA GYMNASIUM - DAY

THIRTY prominent BROOKLYN NEGRO leaders, representing a cross section of civic responsibility, sit on folding chairs before a dais where HERBERT MILLER making an introduction.

MILLER
As all of us know a young Negro second baseman played north of the border last season...

INSERT: Brooklyn YMCA. February 5, 1947.

In back: TWO DEACONS in the back whisper over a SPORTS PAGE.

DEACON ONE
Look here what he did.
(reads)
Led the International League in batting: .349, in stolen bases: 40, runs scored: 113. Plus batted .400 in the Minor League World Series.

DEACON TWO
Last season doesn’t matter. The International League, it doesn’t matter. What matters is this year.
What matters is Brooklyn.

DEACON ONE
Shhh... Here he comes.

As Herbert Miller introduces...

MILLER
I present the general manager of the Brooklyn Dodger baseball club,
Mr. Branch Rickey!

Warm APPLAUSE as Rickey steps up. As it settles...

RICKEY
Good evening. I have something very important to talk with you about tonight. Something that will require courage from all of us.
(a beat)
(MORE)
RICKEY (CONT'D)
I have a ballplayer on my Montreal team named Jackie Robinson.

The start of applause. Rickey motions for it to stop.
RICKEY
He may stay there or he may be brought to Brooklyn. But if Jackie does come up to the Dodgers, the biggest threat to his success, the one enemy most likely to ruin that success, is the Negro people themselves!

There is shocked silence in the room. Rickey notices a group of KIDS watching from a raised running track, soldiers on:

RICKEY
I say it as cruelly as I can to make you all realize the weight of responsibility that is not only on myself and the Dodgers, but on Negroes everywhere. For on the day Jackie enters the National League, if he does, I have no doubt every one of you will form parades and welcoming committees. You'll strut. You'll wear badges. You'll hold Jackie Robinson days and Jackie Robinson nights. You'll get drunk, fight and be arrested.

This is too much. People are slackjawed. Rickey powers on.

RICKEY
You'll wine and dine him until he is fat and futile. You'll symbolize his importance into a national comedy and yes, a tragedy! So let me tell you this!

(pounds his fist)
If any group or segment of Negro society uses the advancement of Jackie Robinson in baseball as a triumph of race over race, I will regret the day I ever signed him to a contract, and I will personally see that baseball is never so abused and misrepresented again!

Is he done? An embarrassed smattering of applause. Mostly shock and stares. As Rickey stands there uncomfortably...

CUT TO:

INT. HALLWAY - YMCA - DAY

Rickey stands waiting; giving that speech has worn him out. The door opens and Miller looks in on him.
MILLER
I question your bedside manner, Mr. Rickey, but they’ve agreed to set up a committee of self-policing. We’ll call it the 'Don't Spoil Jackie's Chances' campaign.

RICKEY
Thank you, Mr. Miller. I’m sorry; the spotlight will be on us all.

70 INT. BEDROOM - BEVERLY HILLS HOTEL SUITE - NIGHT

The silhouette of stately palms through the window. A PHONE RINGS. A figure fumbles through silk sheets for the receiver. It’s LEO DUROCHER, a WOMEN in bed alongside him.

DUROCHER
Yeah?

RICKEY’S VOICE
Hello, Leo, what are you doing?

DUROCHER
I’m bowling. Wait, I’m snowshoeing in the Alps. I’m trying to sleep, Mr. Rickey. It’s still dark out.

CUT TO:

71 INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - EARLY MORNING

It’s very early in New York. Rickey on the phone.

RICKEY
Another spring training is upon us. In Panama. I need to know your attitude toward Jackie Robinson.

72 INTERCUT THE FOLLOWING:

DUROCHER
I don’t got an attitude toward him.

The girl rolls over to look at him. She is the actress LORRAINE DAY and she is stunning. As Durocher regards her...

RICKEY
Eight times in the Bible we’re told to love our neighbor. It’s one of God's most repeated commands.
She puts her hands on him. (Durocher addressing Rickey.)

    LORRAINE
    (softly)
    Hi...

    DUROCHER
    I don’t know much about the Bible.
    LORRAINE
    Me neither...
    DUROCHER
    But I didn't go to school just to eat my lunch either. I'll play an elephant if he can help us win. To make room for him, I'll send my own brother home if he's not as good.

    LORRAINE
    (in his ear)
    What are you going to do with me?

    DUROCHER
    We're playing for money, Mr.
    Rickey. Winning's the only thing that matters. Is he a nice guy?

    RICKEY
    If by nice you mean soft, no, not particularly.

    DUROCHER
    Good. He can't afford to be. Nice guys finish last.

    LORRAINE
    What about nice girls?

She starts to kiss him. It’s hard to concentrate.

    RICKEY
    So you have no objections to him?

    DUROCHER
    None whatsoever. Can I go back to sleep now?

    RICKEY
    Yes. Oh -- and Leo?

    DUROCHER
    What?
RICKEY
The Bible says a thing or two about adultery as well.

DUROCHER
I’m sure it’s got a lot to say about a lot. Good night.

Durocher hangs up the phone, looks to her.

DUROCHER
What am I gonna do with you?

LORRAINE
Leo, I thought you knew...

As she kisses him...

CUT TO:

73 EXT. PEPPER STREET - PASADENA - DAY

Jack stands out front kissing Jackie Jr. good-bye as a CABBIE muscles his LUGGAGE down the walkway to a waiting TAXI. Jack kisses Mallie and hands off the baby. Mallie carries the boy inside leaving Jack and Rachel alone to say goodbye.
RACHEL
Promise me you’ll write.

JACK
When did I ever not write?

RACHEL
I want you to know I’m there for you. Even if it’s words on paper.

He’s sees she’s raw, takes her in his arms with the baby.

JACK
Rae, you’re in my heart.

She sighs, rests her head on his shoulder.

RACHEL
You’re getting close now. The closer you get, the worse they’ll be. Don’t let them get to you.

JACK
I will not. God built me to last.

He kisses her. She kisses him back.

RACHEL
See you in Brooklyn in eight weeks.

JACK
It might be Montreal.

A certainty grips her. She passes it on to him. *

RACHEL
It’s going to be Brooklyn. I know it is.

Power in her words. He nods, looks off toward the taxi.

JACK *
I’ve got to go, Rae. *

She nods. They kiss, embrace a last time. He starts away down the walk. She watches. Something not quite right. *

A tug as Jack stops, looks back at her. Fighting back her emotion and then impelled forward, she runs to him. They come together. She practically disappears in his arms. They do not want to be apart. *

CUT TO: *
Durocher eats heartily. Rickey’s food is untouched.

DUROCHER
It’s a pipe dream, Mr. Rickey.

RICKEY
Pipe dream? What do you mean by pipe dream?

INSERT: Panama City, Panama. March 18, 1947.

DUROCHER
I mean it ain’t gonna happen. The Dodgers are never gonna demand Robinson be brought up from Montreal. Ball players are conservative.

RICKEY
A team full of tough war veterans? Immigrants’ sons? Boys from impoverished parts of the country?

DUROCHER
It - ain’t - gonna - happen.

RICKEY
You really believe they won’t accept him? Once they see how he plays, how he can help them win.

DUROCHER
I’m not saying they won’t accept him: I’m saying they won’t ask for him. I’m saying Robinson’s good medicine, but they’re not gonna like the taste. I’m saying bend over, boys, and get ready, this one might hurt a little.

(another forkful)
Boy, this is good fish.

CUT TO:

KIRBY HIGBE - IN HIS TIVOLI HOTEL ROOM

As Higbe (South Carolina) finishes WRITING something on a piece of hotel STATIONARY, Bragan (Alabama) looks to Dixie Walker (Alabama) and Dodger pitcher HUGH CASEY (Georgia).

BRAGAN
Why do you think Rickey’s got us playing spring games in Panama? (MORE)
He wants to get us used to Negro crowds. He wants more of them than us. He’s hoping it’ll get us more comfortable being around Robinson.

Higbe clears his throat, reads what he’s written:

HIGBE
We, the undersigned Brooklyn Dodgers will not play ball on the same field as Jackie Robinson.

Higbe signs it. He hands the pen to Bragan who adds his own name. Casey signs with a flourish. Casey holds out the pen to Walker who doesn’t take it right away. An odd beat.

CASEY
If you wanna make your mark, Dixie, we can witness it.

Everyone laughs; it loosens Walker up enough to sign.

CUT TO:

76 HOTEL ROOM DOOR

Higbe KNOCKS as Casey, Bragan and Walker crowd behind him.

STANKY’S VOICE
C’mon in!

STANKY’S ROOM

The boys enter. Eddie Stanky sits in a chair stripped to the waist, soaking his right elbow in a BUCKET OF ICE.

STANKY
What’s goin’ on?

HIGBE
Got a petition goin’ on, Stank.

BRAGAN
To keep Robinson up in Montreal where he belongs.

STANKY
Oh... Did Pee Wee sign it?

HIGBE
Ain’t asked him yet. What difference does it make?

STANKY
None, just wonderin’.
Stanky looks to Walker who looks away.

STANKY (CONT’D)
(re: his right arm)
Can’t sign now. I’m indisposed.
Could I catch up with you later?

CUT TO:

77 PEE WEE REESE

Standing in the door to his room. Looking out at the glum faces of Higbe, Bragan, Casey and Walker.

REESE
Look, it’s like this. I got a wife, a baby, and I got no money.
I don’t want to step in anything.
(to Walker)
Skip me, Dix, I’m not interested.

WALKER
What if they put him at shortstop?

REESE
(shrugs)
If he’s man enough to take my job,
I suppose he deserves it.

HIGBE
(laughs out loud)
The hell he does!

WALKER
He does not have the ice water in his veins for big league baseball.

REESE
* So let him show what he’s got.
Robinson can play or he can’t.
It’ll all take care of itself.

CUT TO:

78 CARL FURILLO

The very son of immigrants Rickey was talking about. From Pennsylvania no less.

FURILLO
Give me the pen.

Higbe grins, hands it over. As Furillo signs...

CUT TO:
INT. LEO DUROCHER’S ROOM – THE TIVOLI HOTEL – NIGHT

Durocher lays staring up at the palm shadows on the ceiling. Finally, the phone rings. He answers.

DUROCHER
Yes, Mr. Rickey.

RICKEY’S VOICE
Have our friends in the press gone to sleep yet?

DUROCHER
We are the only people awake on this entire isthmus, Mr. Rickey.

RICKEY’S VOICE
A deliberate violation of the law, needs a little show of force. I leave it to you. Good night, Leo.

DUROCHER
Yes, Mr. Rickey.

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL KITCHEN – NIGHT

Deserted. Durocher stands in a hotel bathrobe, arms crossed as his PLAYERS and COACHES file in. Bleary-eyed, half-dressed, they’re all here, all wondering what this is about.

Suddenly, Durocher grabs the handle of an industrial-sized SOUP POT and heaves it across the room. BRWANG-RANG-RANG!

DUROCHER
Wake up, ladies! Wake the Hell up!
(a stunned beat)
It’s come to my attention that some of you fellas don’t want to play with Robinson. That you even got a petition drawn up that you’re all gonna sign. Well boys, you know what you can do with your petition? YOU CAN WIPE YOUR ASSES WITH IT!

WALKER
C’mon, Leo...

DUROCHER
Come on what?!
WALKER
Ball players gotta live together, shower together, it's not right to force him on us. Besides, I own a hardware store back home and I --
DUROCHER
Screw your hardware store, Dix!
And if you don't like it, screw you! Mr. Rickey'll be happy to make other arrangements for you.

Durocher suddenly marches to Higbe, looks like he’s going to belt him. As Higbe gulps, Durocher turns to the team.

DUROCHER
I don't care if he's yellow or black or has stripes like a zebra, if Robinson can help us win, and everything I've seen says he can, then he's gonna play on this ball club. Like it, lump it, make your mind up to it because he's coming! And think about this when your heads hit the pillow, he's only the first, boys, only the first. More are coming right behind him. They have talent and they wanna play!

He lets that sink a moment.

DUROCHER
Yes, sir, they're gonna come diving and scratching. So I'd forget your petition and worry about the field. Because unless you fellas pay a little more attention to your work, they are going to run you right out of the ball park! A petition?

(looks them over)
Are you ballplayers or lawyers?

As he marches past them and through the doors...

EXT./INT. DUGOUT - PANAMA PRACTICE FIELD - DAY

Jack in his Montreal uniform headed off the field for the dugout. Sukeforth headed over wearing Dodger blue.

SUKEFORTH

Robinson!

As Jack turns, Sukeforth tosses him a FIRST BASEMAN’S GLOVE.

JACK

What do you want me to do with this?

SUKEFORTH

Play first base.

JACK

I’ve never played first base in my life, Coach.

SUKEFORTH

Well, it’s like this. Brooklyn’s got a solid second baseman. And they got Pee Wee Reese at short. But first base is up for grabs. Are you catching my drift?

JACK

(nods)

Yeah. I don’t need a glove to do that.

CUT TO:
Coach Sukeforth, getting balls from a bucket, hitting grounders down to Jack at first. The short hops are wicked.

Jack rolls his catches over to a little PANAMANIAN KID who chucks them down to his brother who tosses them back to Sukeforth. As Jack struggles...

PANAMANIAN KID
El es muy malo.

SUKEFORTH
Mr. Rickey said he wants you playing conspicuous baseball!
(whack)
To be so good the Dodgers’ll demand you on the team!
(whack)
So I thought about it awhile and then I looked up conspicuous in the dictionary.
(whack)
It means to attract notice or attention.

Jack dives, spears a liner. Sukeforth tilts back his cap.

SUKEFORTH
Conspicuous.

CUT TO:
INT. RICKEY’S OFFICE – THE TIVOLI HOTEL – DAY

Bobby Bragan sits across from Rickey looking defiant.

RICKEY
Bragan, most of your teammates have recanted on this petition nonsense. Are you really here to tell me you don't want to play with Robinson?

BRAGAN
Yes, Sir. My friends back in Birmingham would never forgive me.

RICKEY
And your friends here in Brooklyn?

(Bragan just shrugs)

Then I will accommodate you. If you give me your word that you will try your very best for this team until I can work out a trade.

That gets Bragan’s goat. He jumps up, really mad.

BRAGAN
Do you think I would quit on anyone?! I don’t quit.

RICKEY
Only on yourself apparently. You can go, Bragan.

CUT TO:

SECOND BASE – PANAMA – DAY

Time slowed way down as Jack takes a throw at second from the Montreal shortstop. He pivots to turn the double-play even as Dixie Walker barrels in low.

All Jackie’s focus on the task at hand as he throws while Walker submarines him. He lands in a heap tangled up together. They both look back to see the result of the play.

As Robinson smiles and Walker scowls, we know...

RICKEY’S VOICE
Send Dixie in.

CUT TO:
Sitting down across from Rickey.

RICKEY
I received your letter, Dixie.

(reads)
Recently, the thought has occurred to me that a change of ball clubs would benefit both the Brooklyn Baseball Club and myself.

(to Walker)
This is about Robinson?

WALKER
I’m keeping my reasons private. Hope you can respect that, sir.

RICKEY
I realize, Dixie, that you have a Southern upbringing, that you would have to subordinate your feelings for the welfare of this venture. I for one would deeply appreciate it. I think we can all learn something.

WALKER
What I have, Mr. Rickey, is a hardware store back home. It’s called Dixie Walker’s. Folks don’t come because I have the lowest prices, they come because it’s called Dixie Walker’s. Understand? And I make as much money owning that store as I do playing for you.

RICKEY
Is that what you’re afraid of?

(he doesn’t answer)
Bragan’s a third-stringer, but you bat clean-up. You’re popular in Brooklyn. Children look up to you!

WALKER
You got my letter; can I go?

RICKEY
I’ll start looking for a trade or a sale. But it won’t happen until I get value in return. Until then I expect you to drive in runs.

WALKER
I always have. That’s my job.

EXT. PENN STATION - NIGHT

INSERT: Manhattan. April 8, 1947.

Jack exits with his luggage. Looking for a cab, he sees Smith waiting. Smith offers a salute. Jack looks grumpy as he steps over. The Buick waiting beyond.

JACK
You again.

Smith leans back, blinks.

SMITH
That’s right. Me again. Something wrong with that, Jack?

JACK
Come on.

Jack continues past. As Smith follows...

CUT TO:

INT. SMITH’S BUICK - 34TH STREET - NIGHT

Traffic heavy. A glum silence in the car until...

SMITH
They can’t keep you on Montreal for long. After these exhibition games, they’ve got to bring you up. (no reply) You don’t have two words to rub together, do you?

JACK
Do I have to entertain you?

More silence, then...

SMITH
You ever wonder why I sit out in right field with my typewriter on my knees? Does that ever cross your mind?

Jack stares out the passenger window, not in the mood. As he looks up at some of the taller buildings they pass...

SMITH
It’s because Negro reporters aren’t allowed in the press box.

Jack doesn’t answer, doesn’t look over. Finally Smith starts * talking to himself. Pretending to be Jack. *
SMITH 'AS JACK'
You know, Wendell, I never asked you where you were from?

SMITH
Why I'm from Detroit, Jack.

SMITH 'AS JACK'
You don’t say? Tell me more.

SMITH
My daddy used to work at Fair Lane. That was Mr. Ford's estate. My daddy was Mr. Henry Ford's cook.

SMITH 'AS JACK'
I did not know that.

SMITH
Cooked for him for years, but never once broke bread with him. I’d go to work with daddy sometimes. Play baseball out on the lawn with Mr. Ford's grandchildren. We all had a real good time. But it was understood, if they got tired of playing ball and moved inside to the bowling alley or swimming pool, I was not invited or allowed. The grass was as far as I got. So guess what? You’re not the only one with something at stake here.

JACK
(after a beat)
If I start talking, will you stop?

SMITH
I’d be happy to.

Smith stops at a red light.

JACK
I apologize. You’ve been there for me through this more than anyone besides Rae and Mr. Rickey. But I guess that’s what bothers me.

SMITH
How do you mean?

JACK
I don’t like needing someone to be there for me. I don’t like needing anyone but myself. I never have.
SMITH
You are a hard case, Jack Robinson.
Is it okay if I keep driving you or should I let you out so you can walk?

Jack bursts out laughing. So does Smith.

JACK
You remember the last time we were at a red light? Down in Florida?

SMITH
New York City now, baby. We’ve come a long way.

JACK
And we got a long way to go.

The light turns green. Off they go.

93 INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE – BROOKLYN – DAY

Rickey reads to Parrott from the New York Sun.

RICKEY
Branch Rickey cannot afford to only thing keeping Robinson off the Dodgers now, plainly, is the attitude of the players.

INSERT: Brooklyn. April 9, 1947.

RICKEY
If it softens at the sight of Jackie's skills, he'll join the club some time between April 10 and April 15. Otherwise, Robinson will spend the year back in Montreal.

(throws paper down)

For the love of Pete, he batted
.625 in the exhibition games against them, us, them -- Against us! Judas Priest!

Rickey flummoxed as the phone RINGS from the outer office.

PARROTT
Maybe you could have Durocher hold a press conference. Demand that he get Robinson on his team.
RICKEY
Durocher. Of course, he’s my ace in the hole. Very good, Harold.

The phone still rings. Rickey looks to his open door.

RICKEY
Jane Ann! Are you out there?

Grumbling, brambly eyebrows twitching, he makes the mistake of answering his own phone.
RICKEY (CONT’D)

The commissioner of baseball.

HAPPY
Branch, how are you?

INTERCUT THE FOLLOWING:

RICKEY
Fine. What can I do for you, Happy?

HAPPY
Branch, how would you feel about losing Durocher for a year?

Rickey switches the phone from one ear to the other.

RICKEY
I’m sorry, Happy, I thought you said lose Durocher for a year.

HAPPY
Yes. He was seen in Havana with known gamblers.

RICKEY
Anyone who sets foot in Havana is seen with known gamblers.

HAPPY
It’s not just one thing, it’s an accumulation. I received notice today from the Catholic Youth Organization. Vowing a ban on baseball unless Durocher is punished for his moral looseness.

RICKEY
You’re joking.

HAPPY
It’s this business with the actress in California. She’s recently divorced and Durocher is the cause. They may even be illegally married.
RICKEY
Now I’m sure you’re joking.

Happy checks his nails, returns his hand to the MANICURIST.

HAPPY
I wish I were. The CYO buy a lot of tickets, Branch. They draw a lot of water and I can’t afford to ruffle their feathers. Am I mixing metaphors there?

RICKEY
You know very well my organization is about to enter a tempest. I need Durocher at the rudder. He’s the only man who can handle this much trouble, who loves it in fact. You’re chopping off my right hand!

HAPPY
I have no choice. I’m going to have to sit your manager, Branch. Leo Durocher is suspended from baseball for a year.

RICKEY
You can’t do that! Happy, you son of a bitch!

DIAL TONE. Rickey steadies himself, looks to Parrott.

RICKEY
Trouble ahead, Harold. Trouble.

RICKEY

I’m so sorry about the rush. Events are unfolding too fast to keep up with. The burden has finally fallen to me and so be it.

JACK

RICKEY

Yes, yes.

As Jack poises the pen -- Rickey suddenly aghast.

RICKEY

Stop!

Rickey sticks his head out the door.

RICKEY
Jane Ann, come in here.

Harold!

Parrott sticks his head out from an office down the hall.

RICKEY
Get some employees up here!

Jack nods in commiseration. It’s awkward between them. A RUMBLE as a GARBAGE TRUCK goes by.

REESE
There goes another one.

Every time I see a garbage truck go by I still can’t figure why the guy driving isn’t me.

JACK
(smiles back)
We’d both better get on base.

Reese nods. They start walking toward the stadium.
REESE
Know when I first heard of you?

JACK
No I don’t.

REESE
On a troop transport, coming back from Guam. A sailor heard it on the radio, told me the Dodgers had signed a Negro player. I said that was fine by me. Then he said the guy was a shortstop. Least you were then. That got me thinking. Thinking gets me scared.

Jack smiles, hefts his bottle of Pepto.

JORGENSEN
We made it, Jack, huh? Good luck.

That’s it. Everyone else is too busy to come over. As Jack scans for a locker with his name on it, BABE HAMBURGER, the clubhouse manager, steps over.
BABE
You’re looking for your locker, huh, kid? Follow me.

They walk over to a hook on the wall. A uniform hangs from it. A FOLDING CHAIR below.

BABE (CONT’D)
I just got the word. Best I could do. I’ll get you straightened out tomorrow though, huh?

Jack nods, unbuttoning his shirt... Stanky is suddenly there. All pugnacity as he gives up 4 inches and 40 pounds to Jack.

STANKY
You’re putting on that uniform, it means you’re on my team. But before I play with you I want you to know how I feel about it. I want you to know I don't like it. I want you to know I don’t like you.

Jack regards him. Stanky doesn’t flinch. Maybe he should.

JACK
That’s fine. That’s how I prefer it. Right out in the open.

VENDOR
C’mon, Brooklyn! Get your Harry M. Stevens special here!

As he hands one over, gets his .20 cents in return. Then:

VENDOR (CONT’D)
Hey, Lady!

Rachel looks over, baby Jackie in her arms. The vendor takes a baby bottle out of the hot water in his STEAMER.

VENDOR (CONT’D)
I think it’s ready.

106 JACK ROOSEVELT ROBINSON - DODGER CLUBHOUSE

Looking at himself in a MIRROR. Standing in his uniform, the clean white wool, the flowing script: Dodgers. It fits.
We FOLLOW HIM past Stanky as he goes. Follow the BLUE 42 on his back as he steps through the clubhouse.

107 MAKES HIS WAY UP THE TUNNEL.

Always on that magic number as he comes up through the Dodger DUGOUT and steps onto...

108 EBBETS FIELD

PHOTOGRAPHERS snap photos, the crowd spot him and CHEER.

109 RACHEL

Watches from the stands. Pleased at the cheering. She holds the baby up to see, whispers to him....

RACHEL

Okay, okay, that’s good.

As Jackie’s eyes find hers...

110 THE PLAYERS LINED UP FOR THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

The Dodgers down one baseline, the BOSTON BRAVES down the other. Forty-nine white players and one black. Jack at the end alongside Ralph Branca. Jack trying not to choke up.

O’er the land of the free! And the home of the brave!

CUT TO:

111 EXT. DODGER DUGOUT - DAY

The players not starting return to the dugout. Bragan catches up with Branca.

BRAGAN

You’re crazy standing that close to him.

BRANCA

What do you mean?

BRAGAN

(laughing)

What if the sharpshooter misses and hits you instead?

BRANCA

You got a serious problem, Bragan, you know that?
BRAGAN
Really? I don’t see it.

112  BRANCH RICKEY
Surveying the scene. Parrott alongside.

RICKEY
Opening day, Harold. The world is all future and no past.

113  INT. BROADCAST BOOTH - EBBETS FIELD - DAY
RED BARBER looks down onto the field.

BARBER
One out in the bottom of the first. Headed toward the plate for his first big league at bat is Dodger rookie Jackie Robinson. Jackie is very definitely brunette.

114  JACK
Walks toward the plate. More cheers. Mostly.

FAN
We’re with you, Jackie!

FAN #2
Hey, boy, how about a shine?!

Jack struggles not to look back at the source of the jeer. He settles in at the plate. JOHNNY SAIN on the mound waiting for the sign. The crowd BUZZING.

BARBER’S VOICE
Sain looking in. When he’s got that fastball working, he can toss a lamb chop past a hungry wolf.

The BRAVES CATCHER signals ‘1’. Here come the pitch. CRACK! It’s down the third base line.

The THIRD BASEMAN is going to need every ounce of his arm as he fields it at the line, throw across his body to --

FIRST. Where Jack’s foot hits the bag an instant before the ball smacks into the first baseman’s mitt.
You’re out!

Jack can’t believe it. As he trots toward the dugout he looks at the umpire who looks back: I dare you to complain.

As the Brooklyn faithful BOO the call, Rachel and Smith watch Jack head decisively toward the dugout. He was safe.

Rickey sits down closer to the dugout.

RICKEY
It’s a game of inches, Jackie!

PARROTT
Get some glasses, ump!

PARROTT *
How’s Florida, Burt? *

SHOTTON *
Roses need pruning, but fine when I left it last night. Branch said it was important and I heard about Leo. Any idea what this is about? *

118B INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - BROOKLYN - DAY 118B *

Rickey smiles from his desk as they enter. *
RICKEY
Baseball has returned to Brooklyn, Burt. Another season is underway.

SHOTTON
Yeah, it’s a shame about Leo.

RICKEY
Inevitable I suppose. I asked him if she was worth it and he said yes. How’s the retirement?

SHOTTON
It’s fine. The roses --

RICKEY
It's a helluva thing when a man has good health and enough money and absolutely nothing to do.

SHOTTON
I’m perfectly happy.

RICKEY
Is that so?

SHOTTON
When I took off that Cleveland uniform two years ago, I promised the Mrs. I’d never put on another uniform again. Roses look great and I sleep a whole lot better.

RICKEY
Roses and sleep are two wonderful things, Burt. But sleep you can get inside your casket and flowers look good on top of it. You don’t look like a dead man to me.

SHOTTON
What’s this about, Branch?
RICKEY
I need you to manage the Dodgers.
We’re a ship without a captain;
there’s a typhoon ahead.

SHOTTON
No, I’m sorry, but no.

RICKEY
Do you miss the game, Burt? Look me in the eye and tell me you don’t.

Shotton considers Rickey a beat and then looks away.

SHOTTON
Baseball’s the only life for an old pepper pot like me, but I promised my wife, Branch.

RICKEY
You promised her you wouldn’t put on another uniform. You didn’t promise her you wouldn’t manage.
Wear a suit and tie; Connie Mack still does.
(a beat)
You remember how to get to the Polo

SHOTTON
Branch, I --

RICKEY
You remember what the peanuts smell like roasting, how the crack of the bat sounds, the roar of the crowd?

SHOTTON
Sure...

Rickey tosses him a set of car keys.

RICKEY
My car’s parked right out front.
Harold will show you where. Now what do you say?

SHOTTEN
Okay.

Shotton as a manager. You can win the pennant in spite of me. I can not possibly hurt you.

The Dodgers trade looks. Not exactly inspirational. As Shotton heads out he pauses by Jack.

Jack and Rachel out for dinner. Jack nodding as BLACK PATRONS pass by, saying encouraging things. He almost gets a forkful of food to his mouth before a MENU and a PEN are offered for an autograph. As he signs, a FLASH BULB goes off. In a lull, Jack cuts his steak, low to Rachel.

JACK
I’m not complaining, I just, I don’t know what they want.

RACHEL (beaming)
They want to see if Jackie Robinson is real. They want to see your pride, your dignity. Because then they’ll see it in themselves.

He’s stopped short. She blinks with mock coquettish modesty.

RACHEL (CONT’D)
And me? I’m just young and scared and amazed at how brave you are.

He grins at her, almost gets a forkful in when LAWSON BOWMAN, the Black owner, pulls up a chair, shakes Jack’s hand.

JACK
I’m not sure yet. It looks good.

RACHEL - Brushing her teeth. Pauses to hold the toothbrush in a batting stance. Swings...

RACHEL - Strains to reach to zip her dress up. She pulls at the edges of the dress, straightens herself out. She looks over at Jack Jr. who watches from his crib.
RACHEL
You’re lucky you’re a boy.

DOORWAY - Dressed to go, Rachel holding the baby, looking anxiously out on the street. Suddenly, ALICE the baby-sitter is there. Here she comes up the steps, opens the door.

ALICE

RACHEL

Rachel gently hands the baby over.

RACHEL
It’s so cold and raw out, I don’t want him getting sick at the game.

ALICE

RED BARBER’S VOICE
The sky’s are leaden. Threatening.
Eddie Stanky safe at first as Robinson steps to the plate.

Jack walk to the plate, digs a cleat into the batter’s box...

CHAPMAN’S VOICE
Hey! Hey you black Nigger!

Jack looks to the visitor’s dugout where the Phillies Alabama-born manager BEN CHAPMAN stands at the top of the steps.
CHAPMAN
Why don’t you go back to the cotton fields where you belong!
The bear baiting has begun. Jack is in a kind of temporary shock. That’s the Phillies manager! In uniform.

CHAPMAN
Or did you swing your way out of the jungle?! Bring me a banana!

124A RED BARBER - IN THE BOOTH

BARBER
Chapman the Phillies manager up on the top step, seems to be chirping something out to Robinson. Chapman a hothead during his playing days with the Yankees.

125 RICKEY - IN THE STANDS

Sitting next to Parrott. He leans forward, unsure.

RICKEY
What’s he saying?

126 VISITOR DUGOUT

Chapman joined by two of his PHILLIE BENCH PLAYERS.

PHILLIE ONE
PHILLIE TWO
Go home, Nigger! Go back to Africa!

Phillie pitcher DUTCH LEONARD looks in. Jack has to try to concentrate on the pitch. Here it comes. A fastball well inside. Jack hits the deck to keep from getting beaned.

CHAPMAN
Bojangles! You sure can dance, snowflake!

STANKY

On first, mouth hanging open. Almost forgets to take a lead. It's an instant Rorschach test.

DODGER DUGOUT

Shotton and the players look stricken. Even Walker doesn’t quite know what to make of it. No one enjoys it, but Higbe.

STANDS

CONCESSION MEN walk closer to listen. The fans range from horrified to some mildly pleased. Rachel looks stricken.
A fastball inside. He leaps back again. This one was even closer to hitting him. As Jack glares at Dutch...

UMPIRE

Ball two!

CHAPMAN’S VOICE

Hey, black boy! Hey, shoe shine!
Jack doesn’t want to look over, but he is compelled. The bench players flanking Chapman look furious, but Chapman is doing this with a sick sort of glee.

CHAPMAN
You like white girls?! Huh?!
Which one of them Dodger boys' wives are you climbing on tonight?!

Chapman looks toward...

DODGER DUGOUT

They don’t like that one.

CHAPMAN (CONT’D)
Oh, I think I got it. Dixie, I believe I know!

JACK

Grips the bat. Watches for the next pitch with bloody mindedness. He hacks at it, lofts a routine fly into left. He’s about halfway down to first when the left fielder catches it and Jack can mercifully return to the dugout.

RICKEY

Rickey watches as he disappears inside. Finally exhales.

BENCH

Jack sits down. No one says anything to him. No one comes near him as he stares ahead, trapped in a kind of void. The closest player to him is Bobby Bragan. Bragan finally manages to glance over at him, then looks quickly away.

RACHEL

As the Dodgers take the field, Jack heads to first. Almost wincing, wondering if it’s going to start again.

RACHEL
(under her breath)
Look at me, baby. Look at me.

Finally, Jack glances up to her. She offers her eyes: I’m with you. He looks away. Her witnessing makes it worse.

BEN CHAPMAN

Settles back in the shadows of the dugout. Finished for now.
No score. Bottom of the 3rd.

Spider Jorgensen takes a lead off first. At the plate, Stanky lines a single to right. Jorgensen holds at second.

JACK

Steps to the batter’s box, starts digging in that back foot.

VISITOR’S DUGOUT

As Chapman emerges with his two bench players.

PHILLIE ONE                  PHILLIE TWO
Hey, Nigger lips!            Party’s over, jungle bunny!

CHAPMAN

Hey, Pee Wee! Dixie! What’s this Nigger doing for you all to let him drink from the same water fountain as you?! I hope it’s worth it!

JACK

Waiting for the pitch. Takes a mighty swing -- CRACKS a towering POP-UP between home plate and the mound. Dutch watches his catcher Seminick settle under it. Waiting.

DUTCH

Hey, is that a home run?!

SEMINICK

Yeah! If you're playing in an elevator shaft!

Jack veers off the first baseline. Heads for the dugout.

CHAPMAN

You don’t belong! Look in a mirror!
This is a white man’s game. Get it through your thick monkey skull!

Jack stops short looks at him. Chapman stands his ground.

RICKEY

Stands, watches. Praying this doesn’t go south. As Jack finally continues on, Rickey closes his eyes in relief.

RACHEL

Sick for her husband.
THE DUGOUT

Jack stalks down past the team. No one looks at him. Bragan is ashamed. Dixie tries to look disinterested. Stanky and Reese exchange a helpless glance as Jack continues into:

THE TUNNEL

Like a bull on his way to slaughter, he revolts. WHAM-WHAM! He proceeds to turn his bat into SPLINTERS. Concrete chips, wood flies. Jack drops the handle of the bat, pounds his fists. Heaving for breath, framed by the empty tunnel. Raw, electric, ungovernable. All the anger on display, the fury.

FEET SCRAPE. Jack looks up to see Rickey standing there, watching, afraid to get too much closer.

JACK
To hell with this. The next white son of a bitch who opens his mouth, I'll smash his goddamn teeth in.

Rickey stands there until finally, opening his mouth...

RICKEY
You can't, Jackie. You know it.

JACK
I'm supposed to let this go on?

RICKEY
These men have to live with themselves --

JACK
I have to live with myself, too!
And right now I'm living a sermon out there. I'm through with it!

Jack is at the end of his rope. All Rickey has are words.

RICKEY
You don't matter right now, Jack. You're in this thing. You don't have the right to pull out from the backing of people who believe in you, respect you and who need you.

JACK
Is that so?

RICKEY
If you fight, they won't say Chapman forced you to; they'll just say that you're over your head. That you belong where you are.

(MORE)
RICKEY (CONT'D)
That every downtrodden man who wants more from life is over his head.

Jack’s either going to explode or break into tears.

JACK
Do you know what it's like, having someone do this to you?!

RICKEY
No. You do. You’re the one living the sermon. In the wilderness. Forty days. All of it. Only you.

JACK
And not a damn thing I can do about it.

RICKEY
Of course there is! You can stand up and hit! You can get on base and you can score! You can win this game for us! We need you as well! Everyone needs you. (a beat; exhausted)
You’re medicine, Jack.

Rickey reaches out, touches the wall to stay standing. Jack just breathes as familiar sounds reverb down the tunnel.

JACK
They’re taking the field.

RICKEY
Who’s playing first?

Jack considers him. Everything hangs in the balance. Then:

JACK
I’m gonna need a new bat.

As Jack heads back down the tunnel for the field.

CUT TO:

133 EXT. SCOREBOARD - EBBETS FIELD - DAY

Eight zeros hang for the Phillies. Seven for the Dodgers. No score, the bottom of the 8th coming up.

134 JACK

Steps into the batter’s box. Chapman and his sidekicks step from the Stygian abyss of the visitor’s dugout.
Hey, black Nigger! I know you can hear me! If you were a white boy, you know where you’d be right now?! On a bus headed down to Newport. News cuz you can’t play for shit!

Here comes the pitch. Jack nonchalantly sticks his bat out, pokes a soft hit past second. A nothing hit, but he’s standing on first. And he looks, well, ferocious in fact.

As Pete Reiser steps up into the batter’s box...

Jack stares at Dutch Leonard. Assassin’s eyes as he takes an insolent, in-your-face lead off first.

Dutch fires to first. Jack dives back safe!

Back on his feet, he spits out a piece of grit he picked up sliding back on his belly. Not bothering to dust himself off, he’s turning into something elemental before our eyes.

Up in the booth.

Two strikes now to Reiser as Leonard looks in. Robinson with another big lead off first. He's as restless as a cat with a hot foot.

Steal it, sweetheart. Take it.

Dutch throws. Jack on the run as Reiser swings and misses - STRIKE THREE! - and Seminick comes up throwing.

Jack slides into second, the throw high, ends up in center.

Half a dozen Dodgers impulsively on their feet and waving him on as Jack gets to his feet and motors into THIRD. The throw well late. Phillies third baseman HANDLEY throws the ball back to Dutch. Handley then looks to Jack.

I’m sorry. I want you to know what goes on here, it don’t go for me.

Jack barely nods, but he heard.
BARBER’S VOICE
Hermanski steps up.

PLATE

Dutch looking to third, nodding distracted at a sign, looking back to third before... Hermanski cracks a single to left.

As Jack crosses the plate, he stares down Chapman on his way to the dugout. As Chapman turns his head, spits --

CHAPMAN
You fellas are making too big a deal out of this. He scored We lost. One to nothing.

Do you think you were a little hard on Robinson?

CHAPMAN
We treat him the same way we do Hank Greenburg except we call Hank a kike instead of a coon. When we play exhibitions against the Yankees, we call DiMaggio the Wop. They laugh at it. No harm, it’s forgotten after the game ends.

Chapman tosses away his beer can.

REPORTER THREE
Don’t you think this was maybe one foot over the line?

CHAPMAN
Hey. Let’s get the chips off our shoulders and play ball. It’s a game, right?

CUT TO:
Rickey sits brooding, thinking. Parrott enters, upset.

PARROTT
I’m going in that Phillie dugout tomorrow and wring Chapman’s neck!

Rickey considers Parrott, starts laughing. Parrott is hurt.

PARROTT
Did I say something funny?

RICKEY
When I first told you about Jackie, you were against it. Now all of a sudden you’re worrying about him. How do you suppose that happened?

PARROTT
Well, any decent minded person --

RICKEY
Sympathy, Harold, is a Greek word. It means to suffer. I sympathize with you means I suffer with you. This Philadelphia manager has done me a service.

PARROTT
A service?!

RICKEY
Is there an echo in here? Yes, he's creating sympathy on Jackie's behalf. Philadelphia by the way is Greek for brotherly love.

The intercom BUZZES.

JANE ANN’S VOICE
Bob Bragan to see you, Mr. Rickey.

RICKEY
(flashes angry)
What in Satan’s fire does he want?
(presses button)
Send him in.

Rickey pretends to review papers as Bragan enters, his hat literally in his hand. Rickey lets him stand there a moment.

RICKEY
What do you want, Bragan?
BRAGAN
I’d like not to be traded, sir, if it isn’t too late.

RICKEY
What about Robinson?

Bragan’s been staring at the floor. He looks up now. The low afternoon sun hits his face.

BRAGAN
I’d like to be his teammate.

RICKEY
Why?

BRAGAN
The world’s changing; I guess I can live with the change.

RICKEY
(sarcastic)
Red Sox just offered Ted Williams, but I’ll see what I can do.

BRAGAN
Thank you, Mr. Rickey.

Bragan leaves. Rickey looks at Parrott: ‘What do you know?’

He looks over. It’s not easy for this most proud of men.

RACHEL

don’t break... Plus I already bought a scorecard.

She holds it up. His name the only one filled in.

RACHEL

Hey boy! You know why you’re here?

EDDIE STANKY

On the bench. Without warning, he blasts off it. MOVE WITH him as he marches toward Chapman who doesn’t see him coming.

CHAPMAN
You’re here to draw those Nigger dollars at the gate for Rickey!
Chapman clocks the apoplectic Stanky. Spit flying as:

STANKY
Sit down. Sit down or I’ll sit you down.

CHAPMAN
What’s the problem, Stank?

STANKY
You’re the problem, you goddamn disgrace! What kind of man are you?! You know he can't fight! Pick on someone who can fight!

BARBER’S VOICE
(over it)

Stanky so mad he can’t see straight. Chapman surrenders.

CHAPMAN
Okay, okay. Jesus.

As Chapman disappears into his dugout, Jack whacks a single.

CUT TO:

EXT. DODGER DUGOUT – DAY

BARBER’S VOICE
Robinson on first, Pete Reiser at bat. Reiser belts it. A long one. Deep into left center. Back goes Ennis who is not tall enough. This one’s off the wall. Robinson is going to score from first.

Over Barber: a CRACK of the bat, the ROAR of the crowd. As players around him react, Stanky finally looks up as Robinson crosses the plate, heads in, sits a few feet from Stanky.

JACK
Thanks.

STANKY
For what? You’re on my team. What the hell am I supposed to do?
(softly)
I gotta look in the mirror, too.
Stanky stands, walks away. Today’s gonna be okay.

SHOTTON
If you're talking about Dixie, I'd leave the word sheep out of it.

RICKEY
I find myself at odds. I want integration and the pennant. I want to punish Dixie and at the same time I want his salvation.

SHOTTON
Can't he just be a good ballplayer? He has to be a good person, too?

RICKEY
It would be so much simpler if he wasn't batting .385.

RICKEY Nevertheless it must be accepted calmly, Harold. What is it?

A headline: PLAYERS STRIKE. Parrott reads...

GARAGIOLA Get lost.

Here comes STAN MUSIAL, a class act if there ever was one.

SMITH Hey, Stan, what’s the story?
MUSIAL
This is big league baseball, not English tea. Couple a guys might’ve popped off; it’s hot air.

CUT TO:

149 INT. HOTEL ROOM - MCALPIN HOTEL - DAY

Smith types out his report. As rain lashes the window, the Empire State building looms a few block away.

SMITH (V.O.)
St. Louis didn’t win the world championship last year without using their heads. They have the same heads this year and should know that they can’t pick the players of another club.

CUT TO:
INT. EBBETS FIELD TRAINING TABLE - DAY

Jack sits here alone, tending to a bat. Cleaning it with rubbing alcohol, handling it like the friend it is. Rickey joins him. He has a newspaper in hand. He holds it up.

RICKEY
National League President Frick says this is America and baseball is America's game. He says one citizen has as much right to play as another.
(looks up)
Baseball will go on as planned once the rain stops.

Jack eyes his bat.

JACK
Why are you doing this, Mr. Rickey?

RICKEY
Because my job is to win. I have an obligation to Brooklyn to put the best team on the field I can. Your presence on the roster increases our chances of winning.

Not buying it, Jack looks over at him.

JACK
If this is winning, I'd hate to see us on a losing streak.

CUT TO:

INT. DODGER LOCKER ROOM - EBBETS FIELD - DAY

Guys change into their street clothes. Branca reads to Reese from the New York Post. Walker listens in from his locker.

BRANCA
Listen to this: Right now Robinson is the loneliest man I have ever seen in sports.
(upset)
Who's this guy to say Jackie's lonely? He doesn't wear it on his sleeve. Man's got one helluva game face. Take no prisoners. How does some reporter know how he feels.

They stop talking as Robinson walks past, the last one into the shower, a couple of towels around him.
BRANCA
Lonely? I say its the best game face in the world.

WALKER
So long as he showers lonely, he can have whatever face he wants.

CUT TO:

151 EXT. EBBETS FIELD STANDS (BETWEEN FIRST AND HOME) - DAY 151

Rachel sitting here. This section about two-thirds full.

Then, about five rows behind her, two RACIST FANS find their seats. They spot Jack down at first.

RACIST FAN #1
Look there he is! Black as the ace of spades!
As Rachel winces at his words --

RACIST FAN #1

Damn! You believe that? A genuine nigger in a Dodger uniform.

BROOKLYN FAN #1

Shut up and go back to St. Louis!

RACIST FAN #1

Hey, you got a nigger on your team!

BROOKLYN FAN #2

So what?! He’s better than anyone you got!

RACIST FAN #1

Wait’ll his cousin wants your job! Don’t you know nothing?

BROOKLYN FAN #1

Don’t you?!

RACIST FAN #1

He’s a nigger! Hey, black boy!

Rachel stares ahead, tries to maintain. She shows them her back, sits up as straight as she can. Her movements heroic.

CUT TO:

152 EXT. EBBETS FIELD - DAY

Jack steps up against the Cardinals. Garagiola, the catcher, shouts down to third.

GARAGIOLA

Watch this guy! He can’t hit! Especially the curve! He can only get on base bunting!

As Jack digs into the box.

GARAGIOLA

Take your time, Robinson, you’re digging your own grave.

Big RED MUNGER looks in for the sign.

Garagiola flashes a sign: ‘1’. Wants it inside.

Here’s the pitch. Inside. Jack just scoots back.
BARBER
Takes a fastball in on the hands. Robinson, who is pitched to a great deal that way, uses a thicker handle bat than most hitters, just because he hits a lot of balls out on his hands.

Jack edges up closer to the plate.

JACK
What’s your average, Joe?

GARAGIOLA
It’d be a lot higher than yours, if I could run as fast as you can.

JACK
No matter how fast you run, you’ll never hit as much as you weigh.

Garagiola signals for another fastball.

GARAGIOLA
C’mon, Munger! Boy’s got a hole in his bat!

Munger throws inside.

Jack falls back, strokes a double into the gap.

BARBER’S VOICE
That one wasn’t quite ‘in’ enough. Robinson punishing the Redbirds with a smart piece of hitting.

The Brooklyn fans cheer; the Racist fan sulks. The double is little comfort to Rachel who stares ahead, sitting as straight up as she can. Willing herself not to cry.
INT. BROOKLYN CITY BUS - DAY

Jack and Rachel ride home. Forlorn, she stares out.

RACHEL
Oh Jack...

JACK
What is it, Rae?

RACHEL
Nothing. It’s just, sometimes when I sit up there with those bastards, I know you can hear them.

JACK
Don’t worry. It’s okay.

RACHEL
No, it’s not okay. And I can hear them, too.

Jack looks at her, takes her hand in his.

JACK
I know. I’m sorry for that.

Rachel squeezes his hand back.

RACHEL
We’re in it together. When they start in on you, you know what I do? I try to sit up as straight.

JACK
Yeah?

RACHEL
Straight as I can. (MORE)
RACHEL (CONT'D)
I got it in my head that I can block it from you, some of it, if I sit up straight.
(a sad smile)
Isn’t that dumb?

Closing the space between them, he takes her hand.

JACK
It worked. I didn’t hear a thing.

She tries to smiles. As the tears streak her cheeks, he leans in kisses her forehead.

JACK
They’re just ignorant.

RACHEL
If they knew you, they’d be ashamed.

She puts her arm around him, draws that strength.

JACK
Hold on.

RACHEL
I am holding on.

JACK
Long as we hold on, it’ll be okay.

CUT TO:

155 EXT. STANDS - EBBETS FIELD - DAY

WHACK! Rachel and Rickey watch Jack taking batting practice.

RICKEY
You look lovely, Mrs. Robinson.

RACHEL
Thank you.

RICKEY
I don’t know how you do it. Every day, from the 1st to the 9th. Myself? I could pay $100 for a suit and in twenty minutes I'd look like I fell out of bed. Even my shoes look rumpled.

They watch Jack crack one high off the Schaefer Beer sign.

RACHEL
I used to think Jack was conceited.
RICKEY
Is that so?

RACHEL
It was the very first thing I noticed about him.

RICKEY
How did you two meet?

RACHEL
I saw him at a UCLA football game. Even in uniform with a helmet on, his vanity was awful. It was the way he held his hands on his hips. I hated him!

(Rickey laughs)
And on campus he always wore crisp white shirts and I'd think his skin is so dark, why would he do that? Then I got to know him, his pride and confidence, and I realized he was showing off his color. I was wrong. He wasn't conceited; he was proud. Always, of who and what he is. I'd never met another man like that. What about you? How did you meet your wife?

RICKEY
Trying to catch her in a race. She was the fastest girl in town. Beautiful legs. I finally caught up; we've been together ever since.

They sit a moment. Below: Jack nails another one.

RICKEY
I wanted to apologize to you.

RACHEL
For what?

RICKEY
Everything. I can't apologize to him. He and I both knew what we were getting into. But you. A newlywed, trying to blossom a marriage under all this pressure.

RACHEL
Don't worry about me. Or us. We know who we are.

Crack. Jack hits another.
RICKEY
Your husband has humbled me. When this all began I thought I was changing the world and that Jackie was my instrument. Can you imagine? I wish I could help him, but I’m just a spectator.

RACHEL
You help him plenty. Believe me.

They watch him rip into another pitch.

RICKEY
Is he able to get things off his chest? So he doesn’t burn up?

RACHEL
Yes. I have to let him have that silence at first, let him come to me. But he opens up eventually.

RICKEY
Good. It’s too much to carry inside. Does he have any friends on the team?

(she gives him a look)
They’re spectators, too. They do admire him though.

Rachel looks out to where Reese and Stanky play catch.

RACHEL
Do you think so?

RICKEY
Even the worst of us recognizes courage. Moral courage especially. I have to think they see it. Jackie’s a man on trial. He’s responding with glory and grace. No one can take their eyes off him.

RACHEL
He’s had himself on trial since the day I met him. No man is harder on himself or gets to himself worse than Jack. But I hope his team-mates know, they’re on trial too.

RICKEY
I suppose we all are. You’re an astute woman, Mrs. Robinson.
RACHEL
(laughs)
I have to be, Mr. Rickey, I'm married to a man of destiny. I can't let him down.

RICKEY
If I'd met you first, I wouldn't have looked so long for Jackie.

RACHEL
How do you mean?

RICKEY
I mean if he was good enough for you, he's certainly good enough for the rest of us.

CUT TO:

156 INT. PENNOCK’S OFFICE - SHIBE PARK - DAY
Phillie GM HERB PENNOCK at his desk, on the phone.

PENNOCK
Branch, it’s Herb.

157 INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - BROOKLYN - DAY

RICKEY
What can I do for you, Herb?

INTERCUT THE FOLLOWING:

PENNOCK
How long have we known each other?

RICKEY
Twenty years. Maybe more.

PENNOCK
Then trust me when I say, Brooklyn’s due here tomorrow, but you can not bring that Nigger down here with the rest of your team.

Rickey grits his teeth, stays civil.

RICKEY
And why’s that, Herb? His name’s Jackie Robinson by the way.

PENNOCK
We're just not ready for this sort of thing in Philadelphia.

(MORE)
I’m not sure we’ll be able to take the field against your team if that boy is in uniform.

RICKEY
Herbert, what your team does is your decision. But my team is coming to Philadelphia. With Robinson. If we have to claim the game as a forfeit, we will. That’s 9-0 in case you forgot.
PENNOCK
Branch, you’ve got one helluva hair across your ass on this thing and I, for one, would like to know what you’re trying to prove?

RICKEY
Do you think God likes baseball? I do.

PENNOCK
What the hell does that mean?

RICKEY
It means you’re going to meet God one day, Herb, and when he inquires why Robinson wasn’t on the field in Philadelphia and you answer because he was a Negro, it may not be a sufficient reply.

As Rickey hangs up the phone...

CUT TO:
EXT. THE BENJAMIN FRANKLIN HOTEL - DAY

The Dodger TEAM BUS pulls up. The doors whoosh open; Parrott steps off looking official. As the players start to follow:

INSERT: May 9, 1947. Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia.

PARROTT
Come on, fellas! We have twenty minutes to check in and then get to Shibe! Chop chop.

No one is listening as the TEAM DRIVER opens the lower compartment and the players (including Jack) grab their bags.

HOTEL MANAGER
Out! Get that bus out of here!

The HOTEL MANAGER stalks over, flanked by HOTEL SECURITY.

PARROTT
We’re the Dodgers. We have a reservation.

HOTEL MANAGER
Your team’s not welcome, not while you have ballclub Negroes with you.

PARROTT
You mean Robinson can’t stay here?

HOTEL MANAGER
I mean the entire team is refused!

PARROTT
We’ve been staying here ten years.

HOTEL MANAGER
And you can stay away that long!

SHOTTEN
(last off the bus)
Hold on now, let’s talk about this.

The Hotel Manager jerks his thumb like an umpire.

HOTEL MANAGER
Get out! Now, grandpa!

SHOTTEN
Grandpa? Hey hold on, you!

Security getting between as Shotten and the Manager go at it.
Jack is embarrassed, but what can he do? Walker says to no one in particular, but loud enough for Jack to hear:

WALKER
Maybe 42’s got enough friends in town, we can bunk up.

JACK
What’s that supposed to mean?

WALKER
Nothing. It’s just, I know when you can’t get into a hotel, you got people’s houses you can stay at.

JACK
What do you want from me, Walker?

WALKER
An apology.

JACK
(steps forward)
For what? Places like this?

Parrott alarmed at this turn of events.

WALKER
For turning this season into a sideshow! I’m a ballplayer; I want to play ball!

JACK
So am I! I’m here to win!

WALKER
How the hell are we gonna win sleeping on the bus?!

PARROTT
Fellas --

JACK
It might do you some good the way you’re swinging the bat lately.

DIXIE
Watch your mouth!
Walker jabs his chest with a finger; Jack bats his hand away.

JACK
Watch your damn hand!

And they’re lunging at each other. Separated by Reese, Stanky, Branca and Bragan while other players hold off Shotton. Two fights about to break out at the same time.

SHOTTON
Grandpa?! I’ll show you grandpa!

Parrott summons something deep, lets loose a shrill WHISTLE.

PARROTT
Fellas! Burt! Please! Take the bus to the field! Worry about the game. I’ll find another hotel.

CUT TO:

INT. PENNOCK’S OFFICE - SHIBE PARK - DAY

Ben Chapman sits across from Herb Pennock who flips through underlined newspaper reports. Pennock reads one:

PENNOCK
There is a great lynch mob among us; they go unhooded and work without rope.

(looks at him)
That’s you, not me.

(reads some more)
We must remember that all this country’s enemies are not beyond the frontiers of our home land.

CHAPMAN
Some Jew must’ve wrote that.

PENNOCK
This doesn’t look good, Ben! It makes the Phillies, look racist! You’ve got to do something.

CHAPMAN
Me?!
INT. VISITOR’S LOCKER ROOM - SHIBE PARK - NIGHT

ON PARROTT. He’s trying to work up the nerve for something. * Finally, he comes around the corner where Jack sits at his locker talking to Smith. *

PARROTT
Jackie, excuse me, um, a request * came in. The Phillies manager Ben Chapman, he’d like his photo taken with you. *

Jack pretends to sniff the air around Parrott.

JACK
You been drinking, Harold?

PARROTT
Mr. Rickey thinks it’s a good idea. He says it’ll be in every sports page in the country. An example that’ll show everyone even the most hardened man can change.

JACK
Chapman hasn’t changed. He’s just trying to take the heat off.

PARROTT
Mr. Rickey says it doesn’t matter if he’s changed. As long as it looks like he’s changed. Chapman said he’d come down here. Or meet you in the runway.

As Jack slow burns...

SMITH
* See the ball come in slow. See the photo come in slower. *

JACK
(to Parrott) * Tell him on the field. Where everyone can see him.

As Parrott smiles; he’s done it.

PARROTT
* Perfect.

CUT TO:
Chapman and Jack stand side-by-side facing the PRESS. Chapman makes a little speech. Hypocrisy at its best.

CHAPMAN

Jackie’s been accepted in baseball and the Philadelphia organization wish him all the luck we can. I only hope in some small way our trial of fire... helped him along.

Jack looks at him: Did he just say that?
PHOTOGRAPHER
How about a picture? Shake hands.
Bury the hatchet?

JACK
You want a picture? Sure.

Jack steps to the on-deck circle, grabs a BASEBALL BAT. Chapman’s eyes widen as he starts toward him with it.

JACK
(low to Chapman)
We’ll hold the bat. That way we don’t have to touch skin.

Chapman nods, looks relieved. A photographer hands over a bat. Chapman has two hands on the handle. Jack puts one hand on the barrel, the other stays on his hip.

JACK
Ben, I hope all your friends back home like the picture.

Jack smiles as the flashbulbs go off. Chapman looks dumb.

DIXIE WALKER
By the dugout with Stanky, watches in disbelief.

WALKER
Carl, I swear, I never thought I'd see ol' Ben eat shit like that.

CUT TO:

163  EXT. FORBES FIELD - PITTSBURGH - DAY

FRITZ OSTERMUELLER on the mound. He takes a long look in at Jack, at his catcher KLUTTZ who flicks his thumb: ‘Hit him.’

Here it comes. All Jack has time to do is cover his face to lessen the blow. Beaned in the head, he goes down in a heap.

Branca leads the Dodger players out onto the field. The UMPIRES move to head them off. Pirates as well. Kirby Higbe, now in a Pirate uniform, claps his hands pleased.

BRANCA
(in his face)
Ostermeuller, you kraut! You gotta bat, too! Don’t you forget!

OSTERMUELLER
I’m ready, you Wop bastard!
BRANCA
It’s gonna come right between your eyes! Like a Kamikaze!

OSTERMUELLER
(re: Jack)
For him!? He doesn’t belong here!

BRANCA
You don’t belong here! Go home to Goering and Shmelling!

OSTERMUELLER
Make me, you goddamn dago!
As an UMPIRE gets between them, Jack sits up. He’s okay.

CUT TO:

164 INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE – BROOKLYN – DAY

Rickey looks up as Reese enters. He holds a LETTER.

RICKEY
What can I do for you, Pee Wee?

REESE
Well, Mr. Rickey, it’s like this, the series in Cincinnati next week.

RICKEY
It’s an important road trip, we’re only three games out of first.

REESE
Yes, sir. You know, I’m from Kentucky.

RICKEY
Cincinnati’s nearly a home game for you.

REESE
I got this letter, sir. I guess some people aren’t too happy about me playing with Robinson.

Rickey is not liking where this is going; he motions for the letter, scans it, reads the highlights...

RICKEY
Nigger lover. Watch yourself. We will get you, carpetbagger. (holds it out) Typical stuff.

Reese takes the letter back, a little hurt.

REESE
It's not typical to me.

RICKEY
How many of these letters have you gotten, Pee Wee?

REESE
Just this. Ain't that enough?

Rickey looks Reese over a moment. Pushing back his chair he steps over to a filing cabinet.
Motioning Reese to join him, he pulls open a drawer, pulls out a 4-inch stack of flattened letters, then another, then a third. He looks to Reese.

REESE (CONT’D)
What are those?

RICKEY
I’ll tell you what they aren’t, they aren’t letters from the Jackie Robinson fan club. Here --

He thrusts a sheaf of it into Reese’s hands. As Reese flips through the stack of hate, reads:

REESE
Get out of baseball, or your baby boy will die.
(next one)
Quit baseball or your Nigger wife will be...

Reese trails off, won’t say it out loud. Skips to another.

REESE (CONT’D)
Get out of the game or be killed.

He looks at one more, reacts to the vitriol, but does not utter it. Reese looks back at Rickey, shocked.

REESE (CONT’D)
Does Jackie know?

RICKEY
Of course he knows. And the FBI. They’re taking a threat in Cincinnati pretty seriously. So excuse me if I’m not too shocked at you being called a carpetbagger. You should be proud of it!

REESE
We’d just like to play ball, Mr. Rickey. That’s all we want to do.

RICKEY
I understand. I bet Jackie just wants to play ball. I bet he wishes he wasn’t leading the league in hit by pitch. I bet he wishes people didn’t want to kill him. But the world isn’t so simple anymore. I’m not sure it ever was. We just, baseball ignored it. Now we can’t.
REESE
(quiet)
Yes, Sir. I gotta get to practice.

CUT TO:

A 10-YEAR OLD BOY

In the stands. Freckled, cute. Looking at the men around him, his own FATHER SHOUTING at Jack as the Dodgers take the field (the Reds coming off it).

Jack headed for first. Pee Wee out to short.

FRECKLES

Nigger!
(then...) We don’t want you here!

INSERT: Crosley Field, Cincinnati, June 21, 1947.

RED BARBER’S VOICE
Cincinnati fans expressing their displeasure as the Dodgers take the field. Jackie Robinson at first. The Brat Eddie Stanky at second. Spider Jorgensen at third. And the captain Pee Wee Reese at shortstop.
(a beat) Ask any man and they’ll tell you that the Gillette Superspeed razor is a honey. Maybe the sweetest shaving razor you’ll ever use.
Jack reaches first, throws the ball around the infield. Many * in the crowd beyond rise to jeer and heap abuse. COON! SHINE! Jack tries to let it wash over him.

At short, Reese receives the ball, moves to throw to first when he pauses. Deciding, he suddenly moves to trot across the diamond until he’s alongside Jack.

JACK

What’s up?

Now cries of CARPETBAGGER! cut through. PEE WEE, HOW CAN YOU PLAY WITH THIS BLACK BASTARD!? Reese stares up at the worst hecklers along the first base line. He looks a little sad.

REESE

They can say what they want; we're here to play baseball.

JACK

Just a bunch of crackpots still fighting the Civil War.

REESE

Hell, we’d a won that son of a gun if the cornstalks had held out. We just ran out of ammunition.

Jack laughs. Reese has a funny way of saying it.

JACK

Better luck next time, Pee Wee.

Reese impulsively puts his arm around Jack’s shoulder, stares into the Cincy dugout.

REESE

Ain’t gonna be a next time. All we got is right now. This right here. Know what I mean?

Walker reacting out in right. The crowd shuts down, some in shock at the gesture. Jack surprised also.

REESE (CONT’D)

Thank you, Jackie.

JACK

What’re you thanking me for?

REESE

I’ve got family here from Louisville. Up there somewhere. I need ‘em to know who I am.
Jack moved by Pee Wee’s gesture, can’t find the words.

    RED BARBER’S VOICE
    Robinson and Reese conferring at first. Maybe discussing an infield shift on Baumholtz.

    UMPIRE
    Hey! Number one! You playing ball or socializing?

    REESE
    Playing ball, ump! Playing ball!
    (to Jack)
    Maybe tomorrow we’ll all wear 42. That way they won’t be able to tell us apart.

Reese heads for short. Jack pounds his fist in his glove.

171 INT. TRAIN - ENROUTE TO NEW YORK - DAY

Jack playing Gin Rummy with Branca, Reese and Wendell Smith.

    BRANCA
    (to Smith; teasing)
    You ever write about white guys in your paper? I mean, if I threw a no hitter and Jackie got a base hit, what would the headline be?

    SMITH
    Jackie leads Dodgers to victory. Again. Under that: white Italian guy does ok.

They all laugh.

    REESE
    I’d call your folks for ya, Ralph. Tell ‘em how you did.

    BRANCA
    No problem. It’ll still make the Post.

They play their hands as they talk.
REESE
We are on some kind of winning streak, huh boys? And I don’t mean cards.

BRANCA
Hey, maybe forty of our last fifty.

SMITH
Thirty-two and fifteen actually. Since the 4th of July.

BRANCA
Math is why I throw a baseball for a living.

REESE
This next series against the Cardinals, it’s a big one.

They look over at Jack who hasn’t said a word. It’s his play. He lays his cards down. Deadpan as he wins the hand.

JACK Gin.

RED BARBER’S VOICE
The top of the 11th inning, all tied at 2. For those of you just tuning in, how did we get here?

CUT TO:

A172 JACK AT BAT

Jack strokes a DOUBLE over Stanky’s head as Stanky breaks off second for third.

RED BARBER’S VOICE
It’s been double trouble as Robinson knocked in Stanky with a double in the third...

B172 DIXIE WALKER AT BAT

Walker strokes a DOUBLE over Stanky’s head as Stanky breaks off second for third.

RED BARBER’S VOICE
...And Dixie Walker did the same with a double in the eighth.
ENOS SLAUGHTER steps in for St. Louis. Hugh Casey on the mound for Brooklyn. Slaughter looks fiercely determined.

RED BARBER’S VOICE
It wasn’t enough as the Cardinals tied it with two of their own in the top of the ninth. This game is crucial to the Red Birds. They’re five games out, the Dodgers having not relinquished first place since June 30th.

Casey throws a pitch. Inside, a ball.

RED BARBER’S VOICE
Slaughter takes ball one low.
Casey in his second inning of relief. This game is tighter than a new pair of shoes on a rainy day.
Slaughter hitless in four trips as Casey goes into his wind-up.

Slaughter swings, hits a hard ground ball right at Reese who fires over to Jack at first. Slaughter is out by fifteen feet, but he never slows down. And his foot comes down --

-- High on Jack’s right calf. Slaughter’s spiked him something wicked. Jack goes down in a heap clutching his leg, blood already seeping through his high socks.

Slaughter, head down, on his way to the visitor’s dugout as Dodger players pour out of their own to protest. As the UMP raises his hands, motions them all back... Jack pulls up his sock, a bloody mess. Stanky looks to Casey.
Next batter, throw right at his head. Clean his clock --

(fierce)
Just get him out. Understand? Game’s too important.

As Casey nods, Jack reaches up to Stanky and Reese.

They pull him to his feet. Jack looks, finds Rachel in the stands. As he gives her a little wave: ‘I’m okay.’

CUT TO:

173 WHITEY KUROWSKI

A big Cardinal slugger at bat. Casey pitching.

BARBER’S VOICE
The top of the 12th and Kurowski at the plate. He hit his 20th home run on Monday so Casey’s going to want to be careful with him.

The pitch grooves in and Kurowski nails it.

BARBER’S VOICE (CONT’D)
Oh dear. There goes number 21.

CUT TO:

174 SCOREBOARD - EBBETS FIELD

The Cardinals leading 3-2 going into the bottom of the 12th.

The stadium electric as Jack steps in, his left leg bloody. He takes an inside pitch at the knees. Bastards!

Here comes the next one. WHACK - He singles hard up the middle, nearly takes the pitcher’s head off.

FIRST BASE

He rounds hard, returns to the bag. Reiser stepping up to the plate as Musial holds Jack on at first. Jack in a fury.

JACK
I don't care what happens, I don't care what kind of play it is, when I get to second I'm gonna knock someone into centerfield.
MUSIAL
(glances at blood)
I don't blame you, man, you got every right.

Jack running on the pitch. Reiser bunts. The play is to first. Reiser is out and Jack slides safe into second. SCHOENDIENST has the sense to vacate before he gets there.

JACK

Bouncing up and down, wearing that badge of potential violence and action. The crowd buzzing, the electricity practically hits you in the face. Jack’s going to score.

RICKEY

Coming up out of his seat along with the fans around him.

JACK

Walker at bat. Jack steps out, checks on MARION the shortstop. He takes another step out, looks to Schoendienst.

RED BARBER

(over it all)
Munger sets. Robbie back and forth off second. The third bag clearly in his sights. Oh, and Munger deals a pick off throw to Marion at second and Robinson is out!

Marion breaks for the bag and Munger turns and fires a strike. Marion brings down the tag -- Out!

He is and he knows it. The crowd stunned into silence. Jack frozen a moment, head down, furious with himself. Low.

BARBER’S VOICE
The Cardinals pick up a game. It was one of those plays where you do or you don’t and Jackie didn’t.

CUT TO:

INT. TRAINER’S TABLE - DODGER CLUBHOUSE - DAY

Jack on his stomach as STITCHES are sewn into his leg. REPORTERS in front of him.

REPORTER ONE
Did he spike you on purpose?
JACK
You saw the play. I had my foot inside the bag. He was out by a mile. But he kept coming.

REPORTER TWO
Slaughter said it was an accident.

JACK
What are you asking me for then?

REPORTER TWO
Are you calling Slaughter a liar?
This guy’s a real jerk. Rickey arrives, a BASEBALL in hand.

RICKEY
Get out. Let me talk to my first baseman. Go. He’s getting stitched up for Pete’s sake.

The reporters move off for other interviews. Reporter Two hesitant to let it go, finally drifts off. Rickey watches.

RICKEY
Sticking up for yourself is what you’d expect of any man. Some find it galling to see it in a Negro.

JACK
I’m sorry, Mr. Rickey.

RICKEY
Sorry? Sorry for what?

JACK
I lost my cool out there. It probably cost us the game.

RICKEY
I told you, Jackie, all the best base runners get caught sometimes.

JACK
I wasn’t thinking.

Rickey pulls up a chair sits across from him, leans in.

RICKEY
Do you know what I saw this morning? I was passing a sandlot and a little white boy was up to bat. You know what he was doing?

JACK
Sitting on a fastball?

RICKEY
He was pretending he was you. * Wiping his hands on his pants, * swinging with his arms outstretched * like you do. A little white boy * pretending he was a black man.

The two men, who have done so much, looking each other over.

    JACK
    Why are you doing this, Mr. Rickey?

    RICKEY
    We had victory over fascism in Germany; it’s time for victory over racism at home.

    JACK
    Why are you doing this? Come on now.

A long moment between them. Finally, Rickey looks away.

    RICKEY
    I love this game. I love baseball. I’ve given my life to it. Forty odd years ago I was a player coach at Ohio Wesleyan University. We had a Negro catcher, best hitter on the team. Charley Thomas.

Rickey starts slowly rubbing the baseball in his hands.

    RICKEY
    A fine young man. I saw him laid low. Broken because of the color of his skin and I didn’t do enough to help. I told myself I did, but I didn’t. The game I loved had something unfair at the heart of it. I ignored it. But a time came when I could no longer do that.

    (looks up)
    You let me love baseball again. Thank you.

Jack’s eyes gentle on Rickey’s.

    JACK
    You’re welcome.
Rickey fighting back tears now, retreats to his more * confident self. *

RICKEY
You’re a force of nature, Jackie, you’ve complicated everything but yourself. You’re changing the world, and refusing to let it change you. I for one am in awe.

Jack reaches, takes the baseball from him. A beat as they consider each other. Finally, a promise... *

JACK
I won’t get picked off second base again. Not this year.

It’s early. Rachel watches from bed as Jack finishes packing. She looks sad.

Jack looks into the cradle at Jackie Jr..

JACK
It’s pop’s last long road trip of the year, little man.

RACHEL
Careful you don’t wake him.

JACK
I know. I won’t.
(looks over)
You okay?

RACHEL
I don’t like seeing you leave, that’s all.

He looks at her a beat, resumes packing...

JACK
I’ll be home in a week.

RACHEL
Eleven days. That’s a long time without you.

He doesn’t answer, packs away. Finally:

RACHEL
Try not to lunge at the plate.

JACK Seriously?

RACHEL
That’s why they’re throwing the fastballs inside.

He looks at her, a little shocked.
RACHEL
Fight those inside fastballs off, foul them back. Sooner or later they won’t be able to help but throw a curve.

He steps to the bed, leans over her.

JACK
And what'll happen then?

She clucks a 'hit' sound, makes an 'ahhhhh' crowd sound.

JACK
We win enough of these next games and we’ll bring home the pennant.

RACHEL
Pennant? Where are we going to put a pennant? All these baby diapers hanging everywhere.

Jack looks around the room, at the diapers hanging.

JACK
We got room right over there.
Between number one and number two.

She mock grimaces at his bad joke.

RACHEL
Win one if you have to, but bring yourself home; that’ll be plenty.

They kiss.

JACK
Rae, you’re in my heart.

RACHEL
Promise me you’ll come home. That you’ll always come home.

As he looks at all he loves in the world...

JACK
I promise.

Jack exits MacDonough Street apartment building and makes his way down the street.

A CARDINAL RUNNER on second. Jackie holding another RUNNER on first as the St. Louis crowd ROARS.

   BARBER’S VOICE*
   2 on 2 out for the Cardinals in the eighth. Anxious moments now as they’ve cut the Dodger lead to 2. Nippy Jones up. Musial taking his place on deck. Jones likes to punch that ball when he swings.

Insert: September 13, 1947.

Casey on the mound receives the ball. Pounds his glove.

   JACK
   Come on, Casey, get him out! Pitch that ball!

   BARBER’S VOICE*
   The outfield is deep, shaded toward left. Robinson holding the runner on first. Here comes Casey with the pitch --

Jones swings, pops it up.

   BARBER*
   It’s popped up foul toward first. Should be out of play. But here comes Robinson, he’s coming hard --
EXT. SPORTSMAN PARK - ST. LOUIS - DAY

Jack chasing down the foul, headed right for the open steps of his own dugout. He never considers the peril as he CATCHES THE BALL and his left foot comes down onto nothing --

BRANCA LEAPS forward, tackles Jack back onto the infield.

BARBER'S VOICE
He’s got it! And one of the Dodgers has him!

INT. VISITOR’S LOCKER ROOM - SPORTSMAN PARK - DAY

Jack sits in his grass stained pants after the game. Most of the guys are in the shower. Branca, a towel around his waist, is headed there himself. The sight of Jack stops him.

BRANCA
Can I ask you something, Jackie? How come you never shower until everyone else is done?

Jack just stares at him. Branca won’t let it drop.

BRANCA
You shy or something?

JACK
I don’t want to make anyone uncomfortable.
BRANCA

We’re a team. On a hot streak.
Half the wins on account of you.
You’re the bravest guy I ever saw.
You’re leading us and you’re afraid to take a shower?

A beat as Jack considers him. Stone-faced.

BRANCA

C’mon. Take a shower with me.
(a beat)
Hey, I don’t mean it like that.

CUT TO:

197  SHOWERS

The Dodgers showering, guys chattering. Suddenly, there’s Branca and Jack at the shower entrance. All eyes look over.
Branca enters. Then Jack. A beat and everyone goes back to getting clean. It’s no big deal. Except...

Dixie Walker looks to the floor, shakes his head. Finally, quietly, he leaves. Who’s the loneliest man on the team now?

198  INT. BRANCH RICKEY’S OFFICE - BROOKLYN - DAY

As the phone rings, Rickey grabs it. On edge.

INSERT: September 16, 1947

RICKEY

Rickey here.

199  INTERCUT WITH PARROTT

On a payphone in the CROSLEY FIELD CONCOURSE.

PARROTT

We did it, Boss! We did it! We swept Cincinnati! That puts us * seven games up. *

Joyous, Rickey grabs a sheet showing the NL standings.

RICKEY

And eliminates the Giants and * Boston.

He puts an ‘X’ through Boston and the Giants. The rest of the NL are already crossed out. Only the Cardinals remain.

At the same time, Parrott X’s the same out on his notebook.
RICKEY
We’d have to lose nearly every game for the Cardinals to catch us now.
One more win may do it. Who’s pitching tomorrow for the Pirates?

PARROTT
Ostermueller.

CUT TO:

199A EXT. MACDONOUGH STREET - BROOKLYN - DAY
Rachel walks pushing Jackie Junior in his stroller. As she moves, the RADIO BROADCAST of the Dodgers’ game can be heard from one house to the next. In a gap, a passing car picks it up and we hear it from the window. Then another house.

BARBER’S VOICE
A very big game today here in Pittsburgh. A win and the Dodgers will have clinched the National League Pennant.

CUT TO:

199B EXT. EBBETS FIELD - DAY
Branch Rickey alone in the stadium. The field empty as he listens to the call of the game over the PA.

BARBER’S VOICE
Fritz Ostermueller on the mound.
He’s 12 and 8 on the season.

200 EXT. FORBES FIELD - PITTSBURGH - DAY
Ostermueller on the rubber. Staring in at Jack.

OSTERMUELLER
You don’t belong! You’ll never belong!

Jack waits. Ostermueller pitches.

BARBER’S VOICE
Here comes the pitch and Robinson takes outside. Ball one.

200A RACHEL - ON MACDONOUGH STREET
Listening as --
BARBER’S VOICE
Ostermueller winds and throws, low and away ball two. Fritz seems to be pitching around Jackie. Or trying to get him to chase.

RACHEL
Come on. Throw him a strike.

CUT TO:

200B EXT. FORBES FIELD - PITTSBURGH - DAY

Shakes off one sign, then nods at the next. Throws the ball well outside. Another pitch outside. “Ball Three!”

BARBER’S VOICE
3 and 0 now. Robinson waiting on something he can swing on.

As catcher Kluttz throws it back...

JACK
Give me something I can hit!
(to himself)
What are you afraid of?

OSTERMUELLER
You want it?!
(to himself)
Careful what you wish for boy...

Ostermueller nods at the sign. Jack about to slay the dragon as the pitch comes in - WHACK! The ball is going for a ride.

BARBER’S VOICE
That is a deep fly ball to left. Kiner on his horse, but I don’t think he’ll get there.

200C EBBETS FIELD

Rickey standing, looking up like he can see it.

BARBER’S VOICE
Back, back, back and oh doctor! Robinson got his pitch!

CUT TO:

200D FORBES FIELD

The ball sails out: HOME RUN! Ostermueller hangs his head.
Rachel listening, smiling as CHEERS sound from outside the apartment. We hear the sound of car horns on the street.

He runs toward first and we run with him. The smile starts somewhere in his body. His heart most likely. By the time it reaches his face, his joy has erupted. The weight of the world starting to drop.
Kirby Higbe who watches Robinson round the bases in disgust.

HIGBE
Pittsburgh...

Nears second on his home run trot. Even the Pittsburgh crowd starting to applaud him.

CUT TO:

Rickey absorbing the moment. It’s almost too much.

Rounding second and headed for third. The weight of the world somehow lifting. They gave him one he could hit.
We’re tight on Jack’s back as he heads for home at Forbes Field. 90 feet away... 75...

Finally inspired to type: T-h-a-n-k y-o-u, J-a-c-k-i-e.

Nearing home. About to step on the plate. He closes his eyes as well and --

WE CUT TO:

Rachel all alone on the sidewalk looking up and down the street. And suddenly there he is... Jack, scooting between two cars, hurrying to her. And they’re in each others arms.

JACK

I’m home.

RACHEL

Safe. (re: house)
The baby’s sleeping so don’t you make a sound.

He makes to button his lips.

RACHEL

Stay just like that.

She kisses him. And kisses him. And he kisses her back. As they finally head inside, we let them go. And as we’re left looking down the street, a crawl begins:
Branch Rickey was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1967.

Pee Wee Reese was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1984.

Bobby Bragan retired the following year and became a manager in the Dodger minor leagues. He is credited with mentoring several African American minor league players.

Wendell Smith became the first African-American sportswriter to join the Baseball Writers Association in 1948.

Ben Chapman was fired in 1948 and never managed again.

Eddie Stanky went on to manage the St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago White Sox and the Texas Rangers.

Ralph Branca lives and works in Rye, New York.

Dixie Walker was traded the following season to Pittsburgh.

Ed Charles grew up to become a professional baseball player. He won the World Series in 1969 with the Miracle Mets.

Rachel Robinson splits her time between Connecticut and Manhattan where she runs the Jackie Robinson Foundation.

Jackie Robinson was named Major League Rookie of the Year in 1947. He won the World Series in 1955 against the New York Yankees, stealing home in Game One. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1962.

We end on a montage of Jackie Robinson Day in present time. Every year in April, all MLB players wear the number 42 as a reminder of Jackie's accomplishments on and off the field. The number 42 is the only number retired by all of baseball. We see 42s leaving their dugouts, 42s at bat, 42s in the field, 42s signing autographs, 42s stealing bases, 42s lined up for the National Anthem.

FREEZE FRAME on a 42.

The End.
